OUR COMPANY

BUSINESS

We are a biopharmaceutical company developing therapeutic products based on our two distinct core technologies, our NEUGENE® antisense and AVICINE® cancer vaccine. Our principal products when developed will target life-threatening diseases, with initial applications in cardiovascular disease, pancreatic cancer, polycystic kidney disease, drug metabolism and viruses.

Currently approved drugs or other therapies often prove to be ineffective or produce undesirable side effects. Our pre-clinical and clinical studies indicate that our two core technologies may produce drugs that offer more effective treatment options and produce significantly fewer side effects than currently approved products. Our technologies are protected by a strong patent estate including 74 issued patents and 110 applications pending. Each of our lead product candidates, Resten-NG and AVICINE, will address a large market estimated to exceed $1 billion worldwide.

Bringing a drug candidate to market involves significant expenditures and time due to the extensive controlled animal and human clinical trials involved and the process to receive United States Federal Drug Administration, or FDA, approval to market the product following successful clinical trials. The timeframe can be up to 15 years and cost up to $500 million. Only a small percentage of drug candidates become successful commercial products. Our experience and limited resources enable us to initiate drug discovery and development and to move drug candidates through pre-clinical development and into Phase I and II human clinical trials. Our near-term strategy is to co-develop products with strategic partners or to license the marketing rights for our products to pharmaceutical partners after we complete one or more Phase II clinical trials. In this manner, the extensive costs associated with late-stage clinical development and marketing will be shared with, or the responsibility of, our strategic partners. To continue such discovery and development, we will need to raise additional capital from time to time and/or generate royalty or other income from our drug candidates. With additional resources we may consider assuming greater responsibility for the late-stage clinical development and marketing opportunities of future product candidates. As outlined under "Risk Factors," there are significant risks associated with our business and an investment in our Company.

Our executive offices are located at One SW Columbia, Suite 1105, Portland, Oregon 97258, and we can be reached at (503) 227-0554.

RISK FACTORS

AN INVESTMENT IN OUR COMMON STOCK INVOLVES A HIGH DEGREE OF RISK. YOU SHOULD CAREFULLY CONSIDER THE SPECIFIC FACTORS LISTED BELOW, TOGETHER WITH THE CAUTIONARY STATEMENT THAT FOLLOWS THIS SECTION AND THE OTHER INFORMATION INCLUDED IN THIS PROSPECTUS, BEFORE PURCHASING SHARES IN THIS OFFERING. If the possibilities described as risks below actually occur, our operating results and financial condition would likely suffer, and the trading price of our Common Stock, may fall, causing you to lose some or all of your investment in the shares we are offering.

RISKS RELATING TO OUR BUSINESS

Our products are in an early stage of development and may not be determined to be safe or effective.

We are only in the early stages of clinical development with our NEUGENE antisense pharmaceutical products and mid stage clinical development of our AVICINE products. We have devoted almost all of our time to research and development of our technology and products, protecting our proprietary rights and establishing strategic alliances. Our proposed products are in the pre-clinical or clinical stages of development and will require significant further research, development, clinical testing and regulatory clearances. We have no products available for sale and we do not expect to have any products available for sale for several years. Our proposed products are subject to development risks. These risks include the possibilities that any of the products could be found to be ineffective or toxic, or could fail to receive necessary regulatory clearances. Although we have obtained favorable results in Phase II trials using AVICINE to treat colorectal cancer patients, we may not obtain similar or more favorable results in the planned Phase III clinical trial. We have not received any significant revenues from the sale of products and we may not successfully develop marketable products that will increase sales and, given adequate margins, make us profitable. Third parties may develop superior or equivalent, but less expensive, products.

We have incurred net losses since our inception, and we may not achieve or sustain profitability.

We incurred a net operating loss of $26.9 million in 2001 and $29.4 million in 2002, including non-cash write-downs of our investment securities in accordance with SEC accounting rules of $12.5 million in 2001 and $4.5 million in 2002. "Net operating loss" represents the amount by which our expenses, other than interest expense, exceed revenues. As of December 31, 2002, our accumulated deficit was $116.6 million and, at March 31, 2003, was $120.0 million. Our losses have resulted principally from expenses incurred in research and development of our technology and products and from selling, general and administrative expenses that we have incurred while building our business infrastructure. We expect to continue to incur significant operating losses in the future as we continue our research and development efforts and seek to obtain regulatory approval of our products. Our ability to achieve profitability depends on our ability to complete development of our products, obtain regulatory approvals and market our products. It is uncertain when, if ever, we will become profitable.

If we fail to attract significant additional capital, we may be unable to continue to successfully develop our products.

Since we began operations, we have obtained operating funds primarily by selling shares of our Common Stock. In May 2003, we raised $22.5 million by issuing common stock and warrants. Based on our current plans, we believe that current cash balances will be sufficient to meet our operating needs through calendar 2004. Furthermore, the actual amount of funds that we will need will be determined by many factors, some of which are beyond our control. These factors include the success of our research and development efforts, the status of our pre-clinical and clinical testing, costs relating to securing regulatory approvals and the costs and timing of obtaining new patent rights, regulatory changes, competition and technological developments in the market. We may need funds sooner than currently anticipated.

We anticipate that we may need to obtain additional funds in the future. If necessary, potential sources of additional funding include strategic relationships, public or private sales of shares of our common stock or debt or other arrangements. We do not have any committed sources of additional financing at this time. We may not obtain additional funding when we need it on terms that will be acceptable to us or at all. If we raise funds by selling additional shares of our common stock or securities convertible into our common stock, the ownership interest of our existing shareholders will be diluted. If we are unable to obtain financing when needed, our business and future prospects would be materially adversely affected.

If we fail to receive necessary regulatory approvals, we will be unable to commercialize our products.

All of our products are subject to extensive regulation by the FDA and by comparable agencies in other countries. The FDA and comparable agencies require new pharmaceutical products to undergo lengthy and detailed clinical testing procedures and other costly and time-consuming compliance procedures. AVICINE has completed three Phase I and two Phase II studies and is ready to start a Phase III trial. Our first NEUGENE Antisense drug, Resten-NG, completed Phase I trials in late 2001 and a Phase II trial in 2002. We initiated two additional Phase 1b studies in 2001 for cancer and polycystic kidney disease and completed three Phase I trials on drug metabolism. Except for clinical trials underway or ready to start, we may not initiate additional trials when predicted or at all, or complete our clinical trials that are started or in a timely fashion. We do not know when or if we will be able to submit our products for regulatory review. Even if we submit a new drug application, there may be delays in obtaining regulatory approvals, if we obtain them at all. Sales of our products outside the United States will also be subject to regulatory requirements governing clinical trials and product approval. These requirements vary from country to country and could delay introduction of our products in those countries. We cannot assure you that any of our products will receive marketing approval from the FDA or comparable foreign agencies.

We may fail to compete effectively, particularly against larger, more established pharmaceutical companies, causing our business to suffer.

The biotechnology industry is highly competitive. We compete with companies in the United States and abroad that are engaged in the development of pharmaceutical technologies and products. They include: biotechnology, pharmaceutical, chemical and other companies; academic and scientific institutions; governmental agencies; and public and private research organizations.

Many of these companies and many of our other competitors have much greater financial and technical resources and production and marketing capabilities than we do. Our industry is characterized by extensive research and development and rapid technological progress. Competitors may successfully develop and market superior or less expensive products which render our products less valuable or unmarketable.

We have limited operating experience.

We have engaged solely in the development of pharmaceutical technology. Although some of our management have experience in biotechnology company operations, we have limited experience in manufacturing or selling pharmaceutical products. We also have only limited experience in negotiating and maintaining strategic relationships, and in conducting clinical trials and other later-stage phases of the regulatory approval process. We may not successfully engage in some or all of these activities.

We have limited manufacturing capability.

While we believe that we can produce materials for clinical trials and produce products for human use at our recently completed GMP manufacturing facility, we may need to, depending on demand, expand our commercial manufacturing capabilities for products in the future if we elect not to or cannot contract with others to manufacture our products. This expansion may occur in stages, each of which would require regulatory approval, and product demand could at times exceed supply capacity. We have not selected a site for any expanded facilities and do not know what the construction cost will be for such facilities and whether we will have the financing needed for such construction. We do not know if or when the FDA will determine that such facilities comply with Good Manufacturing Practices. The projected location and construction of any facilities will depend on regulatory approvals, product development, pharmaceutical partners and capital resources, among other factors. We have not obtained regulatory approvals for any productions facilities for our products, nor can we assure investors that we will be able to do so.

If we lose key personnel or are unable to attract and retain additional, highly skilled personnel required for our activities, our business will suffer.

Our success will depend to a large extent on the abilities and continued service of several key employees, including Drs. Denis Burger, Patrick Iversen, David Mason and Dwight Weller. We maintain key man life insurance in the amount of $1,000,000 for Dr. Burger and $500,000 for each of Drs. Iversen and Weller. The loss of any of these key employees could significantly delay the achievement of our goals. Competition for qualified personnel in our industry is intense, and our success will depend on our ability to attract and retain highly skilled personnel. To date, we are not aware of any key personnel who plan to retire or otherwise leave the Company in the near future.

Asserting, defending and maintaining our intellectual property rights could be difficult and costly, and our failure to do so will harm our ability to compete and the results of our operations.

Our success will depend on our existing patents and licenses, and our ability to obtain additional patents in the future. We have been issued 74 patents and have filed an additional 110 patent applications in the United States, Canada, Europe, Australia and Japan. We license the composition, manufacturing and use of AVICINE in all fields, except fertility regulation from The Ohio State University, and we license other patents for certain complementary technologies from others.

Some of our patents on core technologies expire as early as 2008, including for NEUGENES; however, based on patented improvements and additions to such core patents, we believe our patent protection for those products and other products would extend beyond 2020.

We cannot assure investors that our pending patent applications will result in patents being issued in the United States or foreign countries. In addition, the patents which have been or will be issued may not afford meaningful protection for our technology and products. Competitors may develop products similar to ours which do not conflict with our patents. Others may challenge our patents and, as a result, our patents could be narrowed or invalidated. The patent position of biotechnology firms generally is highly uncertain, involves complex legal and factual questions, and has recently been the subject of much litigation. No consistent policy has emerged from the United States Patent and Trademark Office, or USPTO, or the courts regarding the breadth of claims allowed or the degree of protection afforded under biotechnology patents. In addition, there is a substantial backlog of biotechnology patent applications at the USPTOs and the approval or rejection of patents may take several years.

Our success will also depend partly on our ability to operate without infringing upon the proprietary rights of others, as well as our ability to prevent others from infringing on our proprietary rights. We may be required at times to take legal action to protect our proprietary rights and, despite our best efforts, we may be sued for infringing on the patent rights of others. We have not received any communications or other indications from owners of related patents or others that such persons believe our products or technology may infringe their patents. Patent litigation is costly and, even if we prevail, the cost of such litigation could adversely affect our financial condition. If we do not prevail, in addition to any damages we might have to pay, we could be required to stop the infringing activity or obtain a license. Any required license may not be available to us on acceptable terms, or at all. If we fail to obtain a license, our business might be materially adversely affected.

To help protect our proprietary rights in unpatented trade secrets, we require our employees, consultants and advisors to execute confidentiality agreements. However, such agreements may not provide us with adequate protection if confidential information is used or disclosed improperly. In addition, in some situations, these agreements may conflict with, or be subject to, the rights of third parties with whom our employees, consultants or advisors have prior employment or consulting relationships. Further, others may independently develop substantially equivalent proprietary information and techniques, or otherwise gain access to our trade secrets.

If our strategic relationships are unsuccessful, our business could be harmed.

Our strategic relationships with SuperGen, Inc., Medtronic, Inc. ("Medtronic"), Exelixis, Inc. and others are important to our success. The development, improvement and marketing of many of our key therapeutic products are or will be dependent on the efforts of our strategic partners. For example, under the SuperGen, Inc. relationship, we may fail to achieve clinical and sales milestones; AVICINE may fail to achieve regulatory approval; AVICINE may not be commercially successful; SuperGen, Inc. may fail to perform its obligations under our agreements, such as failing to devote sufficient resources to marketing AVICINE; and our agreements with SuperGen, Inc. may be terminated against our will. Similarly, under the Medtronic relationship, we are dependent on Medtronic to achieve clinical and other milestones, to obtain regulatory approval and to commercially exploit our antisense compounds, including Resten-NG, in certain treatments of vascular disease; which products may not be developed or, if developed may not be commercially successful; if Medtronic fails to perform its obligations under our agreements, such as failing to devote sufficient resources to development or to market such products. We may also need additional future funding, including for operations, product development and our other activities. We may receive additional funding from our strategic partners, including SuperGen, Inc. and Medtronic, under existing agreements. We may not receive any additional payments from SuperGen, Inc. or Medtronic and those relationships may not be commercially successful. The transactions contemplated by our agreements with strategic partners, including the equity purchases and cash payments, are subject to numerous risks and conditions. The occurrence of any of these events could severely harm our business.

Our near-term strategy is to co-develop products with strategic partners or to license the marketing rights for our products to pharmaceutical partners after we complete one or more Phase II clinical trials. In this manner, the extensive costs associated with late-stage clinical development and marketing will be shared with, or the responsibility of, our strategic partners.

To fully realize the potential of our products, including development, production and marketing, we may need to establish other strategic relationships.

We have limited sales capability and may not be able to successfully commercialize our products.

We have been engaged solely in the development of pharmaceutical technology. Although some of our management have experience in biotechnology company operations, we have limited experience in manufacturing or selling pharmaceutical products. We also have only limited experience in negotiating and maintaining strategic relationships, and in conducting clinical trials and other later-stage phases of the regulatory approval process. To the extent we rely on strategic partners to fully commercialize our products, we will be dependent on their efforts. We may not successfully engage in any of these activities.

We may be subject to product liability lawsuits and our insurance may not be adequate to cover damages.

We believe we carry adequate insurance for the product development research we currently conduct. In the future, when we have products available for commercial sale and use, the use of our products will expose us to the risk of product liability claims. Although we intend to obtain product liability insurance coverage, product liability insurance may not continue to be available to us on acceptable terms and our coverage may not be sufficient to cover all claims against us. A product liability claim, even one without merit or for which we have substantial coverage, could result in significant legal defense costs, thereby increasing our expenses, lowering our earnings and, depending on revenues, potentially resulting in additional losses.

Continuing efforts of government and third party payers to contain or reduce the costs of health care may adversely affect our revenues and future profitability.

In addition to obtaining regulatory approval, the successful commercialization of our products will depend on our ability to obtain reimbursement for the cost of the product and treatment. Government authorities, private health insurers and other organizations, such as health maintenance organizations are increasingly challenging the prices charged for medical products and services. Also, the trend toward managed health care in the United States, the growth of healthcare organizations such as HMOs, and legislative proposals to reform healthcare and government insurance programs could significantly influence the purchase of healthcare services and products, resulting in lower prices and reducing demand for our products. The cost containment measures that healthcare providers are instituting and any healthcare reform could affect our ability to sell our products and may have a material adverse effect on our operations. Reimbursement in the United States or foreign countries may not be available for any of our products, any reimbursement granted may be reduced or discontinued, and limits on reimbursement available from third-party payors may reduce the demand for, or the price of, our products. The lack or inadequacy of third-party reimbursements for our products would have a material adverse effect on our operations. Additional legislation or regulation relating to the healthcare industry or third-party coverage and reimbursement may be enacted in the future that adversely affects our products and our business.

If we fail to establish strategic relationships with larger pharmaceutical partners, our business may suffer.

We do not intend to conduct late-stage (Phase III) human clinical trials ourselves. We anticipate entering into relationships with larger pharmaceutical companies to conduct later pharmaceutical trials and to market our products and we also plan to continue to use contract manufacturing for late stage clinical and commercial quantities of our products. We may be unable to enter into corporate partnerships which could impede our ability to bring our products to market. Any such corporate partnerships, if entered, may not be on favorable terms and may not result in the successful development or marketing of our products. If we are unsuccessful in establishing advantageous clinical testing, manufacturing and marketing relationships, we are not likely to generate significant revenues and become profitable.

We use hazardous substances in our research activities.

We use organic and inorganic solvents and reagents in our clinical development that are customarily used in pharmaceutical development and synthesis. Some of those solvents and reagents we use, such as methylene chloride, isopropyl alcohol, ethyl acetate and acetone, may be classified as hazardous substances, are flammable and, if exposed to human skin can cause anything from irritation to severe burns. We receive, store, use and dispose of such chemicals in compliance with all applicable laws with containment storage facilities and contained handling and disposal safeguards and procedures. We are routinely inspected by federal, state and local governmental and public safety agencies regarding our storage, use and disposal of such chemicals, including the federal Occupational, Safety and Health Agency ("OSHA"), the Oregon Department of Environmental Quality ("DEQ") and local fire departments, without any material noncompliance issues in such inspections. Further, our usage of such chemicals is limited and falls below the reporting thresholds under federal law. Based on our limited use of such chemicals, the nature of such chemicals and the safeguards we undertake for storage, use and disposal, we believe we do not have any material exposure for toxic tort liability. Further, the cost of such compliance is not a material cost in our operating budget. While we do not have toxic tort liability insurance at this time, we believe our current insurance coverage is adequate to cover most liabilities that may arise from our use of such substances. If we are wrong in any of our beliefs, we could incur a liability in certain circumstances that would be material to our finances and the value of an investment in our securities.

RISKS RELATED TO SHARE OWNERSHIP

Our right to issue preferred stock, our classified Board of Directors and Oregon Anti-Takeover laws may delay a takeover attempt and prevent or frustrate any attempt to replace or remove the then current management of the Company by shareholders.

Our authorized capital consists of 200,000,000 shares of common stock and 20,000,000 shares of preferred stock. Our board of directors, without any further vote by the shareholders, has the authority to issue preferred shares and to determine the price, preferences, rights and restrictions, including voting and dividend rights, of these shares. The rights of the holders of shares of common stock may be affected by the rights of holders of any preferred shares that our board of directors may issue in the future. For example, our board of directors may allow the issuance of preferred shares with more voting rights, higher dividend payments or more favorable rights upon dissolution, than the shares of common stock or special rights to elect directors.

In addition, we have a "classified" board of directors, which means that only one-half of our directors are eligible for election each year. Therefore, if shareholders wish to change the composition of our Board of Directors, it could take at least two years to remove a majority of the existing directors or to change all directors. Having a classified board of directors may, in some cases, delay mergers, tender offers or other possible transactions which may be favored by some or a majority of our shareholders and may delay or frustrate action by shareholders to change the then current Board of Directors and management.

The Oregon Control Share Act and Business Combination Act may limit parties who acquire a significant amount of voting shares from exercising control over us for specific periods of time. These acts may lengthen the period for a proxy contest or for a person to vote their shares to elect the majority of our Board and change management.

Our stock price is volatile and may fluctuate due to factors beyond our control.

The following types of announcements could have a significant impact on the price of our common stock: positive or negative results of testing and clinical trials by ourselves or competitors; delays in entering into corporate partnerships; technological innovations or commercial product introductions by ourselves or competitors; changes in government regulations; developments concerning proprietary rights, including patents and litigation matters; public concern relating to the commercial value or safety of any of our products; or general stock market conditions.

Further, the stock market has in recent months experienced and may continue to experience significant price and volume fluctuations. These fluctuations have particularly affected the market prices of equity securities of many biopharmaceutical companies that are not yet profitable. Often, the effect on the price of such securities is unrelated or disproportionate to the operating performance of such companies. These broad market fluctuations may adversely affect the ability of a shareholder to dispose of his or her shares at a price equal to or above the price at which the shares were purchased.

The significant number of our shares of Common Stock eligible for future sale may cause the price of our common stock to fall.

As of May 20, 2003, we have outstanding 31,164,524 shares of common stock and all are eligible for sale under Rule 144 or are otherwise freely tradable, including the 7,149,426 shares being registered hereunder. The timing of the effectiveness of this registration statement is uncertain. In addition:

Our employees and others hold options to buy a total of 3,675,002 shares of common stock as of May 20, 2003. The shares of common stock to be issued upon exercise of these options have been registered, and therefore may be freely sold when issued.

There are outstanding warrants to buy 13,468,684 shares of common stock as of May 20, 2003. 8,030,953 shares issuable upon exercise of 8,030,953 warrants are registered and an additional 2,565,000 shares issuable upon exercise of warrants are under registration in this registration. These shares may be freely sold when issued. The holders of warrants covering 400,000 shares have incidental registration rights to have the shares issuable upon the exercise of their warrants registered. Once registered, those shares may be freely sold when issued, for so long as the registration statement is effective and current. The remaining warrants have no registration rights.

We may issue options to purchase up to an additional 1,573,957 shares of common stock under our stock option plans as of May 20, 2003, which also will be fully saleable when issued.

We are authorized to sell up to 164,004 shares of common stock under our Employee Stock Purchase Plan to our full-time employees, nearly all of whom are eligible to participate.

Besides issuing to Medtronic International, Ltd. ("MIL," formerly Medtronic Asset Management, Inc.) a warrant for 3,000,000 shares ("Warrant Shares") of our Common Stock, we have also granted certain contractual rights to MIL to purchase (i) an additional 352,113 shares of our Common Stock at a price of $7.10 per share ("First Purchase Right") and (ii) the right to purchase up to $7,500,000 of our Common Stock based on the average closing sales price for the five days preceding the commitment to purchase. Medtronic's obligations to purchase are subject to certain technology milestones being met or, if not met, waived by MIL and any required regulatory or shareholder approvals. MIL may require us to register these shares upon the exercise of such purchase rights. The Warrant Shares and shares of our Common Stock covered by the First Purchase Right have been registered for resale and those shares may be freely sold when issued, for so long as that registration statement is effective and current.

Edgar Filing: AVI BIOPHARMA INC - Form S-3

Sales of substantial amounts of shares into the public market could lower the market price of our common stock.

We were unable to obtain Arthur Andersen LLP's consent to incorporate by reference in this offering Arthur Andersen's report on our financials for calendar years 2000 and 2001 which Arthur Andersen audited, which could reduce your rights if there were any material misstatements or omissions in such financial statements.

On May 15, 2002, we dismissed Arthur Andersen as our auditors and retained KPMG LLP. In June 2002, Arthur Andersen was convicted of federal obstruction of justice charges. As a result of Arthur Andersen's conviction, Arthur Andersen is no longer in a position to reissue their audit reports or to provide consents to include financial statements in this prospectus.

Our financial statements for our two fiscal years ended December 31, 2001 and 2000 were audited by Arthur Andersen LLP ("Arthur Andersen") ("Prior Financials"). Those Prior Financials were included in our Report on Form 10-K for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2002, filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC") on March 31, 2003 ("2002 10-K"). The Arthur Andersen report, dated February 21, 2002, expressed an unqualified opinion on those financials. The SEC rules relating to the registration of the securities included in this offering require that we include in the registration of such shares the 2002 and 2001 financial statements and the auditor's reports thereon by incorporation of and reference to our 2002 10-K and that we file a consent of Arthur Andersen to such inclusion of their report. The consent of Arthur Andersen is not available as they are no longer in a position to reissue their reports or provide consents.

Without Arthur Andersen's consent to such inclusion in the registration of the shares being offered, you may not rely on their audit of the Prior Financials in purchasing securities in this offering. As a result, your remedies as an investor against Arthur Andersen may be materially reduced or eliminated in the event of a material misstatement or omission in such Prior Financials. Under Section 11 of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended ("1933 Act"), you would otherwise have certain claims against Arthur Andersen if there were material misstatements or omissions related to Arthur Andersen's audit and opinion included in such Prior Financials. Without such consent, there would not be such liability. Further, there may be similar claims and remedies under the antifraud provisions of the 1933 Act, the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and applicable state securities laws that will also not be available against Arthur Andersen for the audit and material misstatements or omissions, if any, related to such audit without such consent. Further, in giving such consent, Arthur Andersen would normally undertake certain review and updating procedures that could uncover certain material misstatements or omissions, if they existed, in the Prior Financials or require their qualification. The Prior Financials incorporated herein will not have had the benefit of such review process and possible disclosure of any such misstatements, omissions or qualifications. While the Company is not aware of any material misstatements or omissions or qualifications related to the Prior Financials or Arthur Andersen's audit work, there is no assurance that there are none. If there are any, the value of an investment in our securities could be adversely affected and an investor would not have any recourse against Arthur Andersen if it were otherwise responsible to investors under applicable law for such loss. If there were any, the Company believes that it is unlikely that damages, if any, could be recovered from Arthur Andersen for any claim against them.

We do not expect to pay dividends in the foreseeable future.

We have never paid dividends on our shares of common stock and do not intend to pay dividends in the foreseeable future. Therefore, you should only invest in our common stock with the expectation of realizing a return through capital appreciation on your investment. You should not invest in our common stock if you are seeking dividend income.

BUSINESS

General Overview

Business

We are a biopharmaceutical company developing therapeutic products based on two distinct core technologies, our NEUGENE antisense and our AVICINE cancer vaccine. Our principal products, when developed will target life-threatening diseases, with initial applications in cardiovascular disease, infectious disease, cancer and other applications. Currently approved drugs or other therapies for these diseases often prove to be ineffective or produce undesirable side effects. Our pre-clinical and clinical studies indicate that our two core technologies may produce drugs that offer more effective treatment options and produce significantly fewer side effects than currently approved products. Our technologies are protected by a strong patent estate including 74 issued patents and 110 applications pending. Each of our lead product candidates, Resten-NG and AVICINE, will address a large market estimated to exceed $1 billion worldwide.

Antisense Drugs (NEUGENES)

We have developed third-generation antisense technology that we believe produces drugs that are more stable, specific, efficacious, and cost effective than other antisense or ribozyme compounds. Our NEUGENE compounds are distinguished by a novel backbone chemistry which replaces the natural or modified backbones of competing technologies.

NEUGENES are synthetic polymers that block the function of selected genetic sequences involved in disease processes. Targeting specific genetic sequences provides for greater selectivity than that available through conventional drugs. NEUGENES have the potential to provide safe and effective treatment for a wide range of human diseases.

We have completed pre-clinical studies using our NEUGENE compounds in the treatment of cardiovascular disease, cancer, polycystic kidney disease, drug metabolism, inflammation, and infectious disease. We filed our first antisense Investigational New Drug application (IND) with the FDA for Resten-NG for cardiovascular restenosis in 1999 and completed both a Phase I and Phase II clinical trial by late 2002. We have completed three Phase I trials in drug metabolism and two Phase 1b trials for cancer and polycystic kidney disease in 2002.

AVICINE Cancer Vaccine

Edgar Filing: AVI BIOPHARMA INC - Form S-3

AVICINE, a therapeutic cancer vaccine, represents our most advanced product opportunity, having completed multi-center Phase II human clinical trials for colorectal cancer and pancreatic cancer. Cancer vaccines operate under the rationale that immunization stimulates an immune response that is effective in combating an existing cancer.

AVICINE is directed against a hormone that is expressed on most cancers and is believed to promote the growth and spread of cancer. This hormone is called human chorionic gonadotropin (hCG) and is normally responsible for stimulating fetal development during pregnancy, but is also associated with all major types of cancer, including colon, pancreas, prostate, lung and breast.

AVICINE has completed six clinical studies in cancer, involving over 225 patients. From these studies, we believe that the vaccine is a safe and essentially non-toxic therapy and capable of producing a specific immune response in most patients. Further, the patients who mounted an immune response to vaccination appeared to derive a survival benefit. We intend to investigate further the use of AVICINE alone or in conjunction with other approved therapies in Phase II and Phase III trials.

Strategy

We have the experience and, subject to receiving adequate funding from time to time, resources to initiate drug discovery and development, and move drug candidates through pre-clinical development and mid-stage clinical trials (Phase I and Phase II). Our strategy for the near-term (2 to 3 years) is to license the marketing rights for our product candidates to pharmaceutical partners during or after Phase II clinical trials or co-develop product candidates with strategic partners. In this manner, late-stage clinical development and marketing will be the responsibility of the partner or licensee. With adequate resources we may consider assuming greater responsibility for the late-stage clinical development and marketing opportunities of future product candidates.

Bringing drug candidates to market involves a significant commitment of time and resources due to the clinical trial process required to obtain FDA approval to market products. The timeframe from the early drug discovery phase to FDA approval can be up to 15 years and the cost up to $500 million, with only a small percentage of early drug discovery candidates becoming successful commercial products. Our experience and resources enable us to initiate drug discovery and development and to move drug candidates through pre-clinical development, and Phase I and II human clinical trials. Our near-term strategy is to co-develop products with strategic partners or to license the marketing rights for our products to pharmaceutical partners after we complete one or more clinical trials. In this manner, the costs associated with late-stage clinical development and marketing will be shared with, or the responsibility of, our strategic partners. To continue drug discovery and clinical development, we will need to raise additional capital from time to time and/or generate royalty or other income from our drug candidates. With additional resources we may consider assuming greater responsibility for the late-stage clinical development and marketing opportunities of future product candidates. As outlined under "Risk Factors," there are significant risks associated with our business.

CLINICAL DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM

We are a biopharmaceutical company developing therapeutic products based on our NEUGENE antisense technology for the treatment of life-threatening diseases, with initial applications in cardiovascular disease, cancer, and drug metabolism, and our AVICINE cancer vaccine with applications in cancer. Currently approved drugs or other therapies often prove to be ineffective in treating these diseases or produce undesirable side effects. Our core technologies are specifically aimed at overcoming these challenges. We currently have products at various stages of clinical development as summarized below. We will not have marketable products until our drug candidates complete all required clinical trials and receive FDA approval. The following table summarizes our clinical development program.

Product Candidate	Pre-Clinical	Phase I/1b	Phase 1b/II	Phase III
AVICINE® (Colorectal Cancer Vaccine)	Completed	Completed	Completed
AVICINE® (Pancreatic Cancer Vaccine)	Completed Completed	Completed Completed	2 Completed Completed	Planned Planned

Edgar Filing: AVI BIOPHARMA INC - Form S-3

Product Candidate	Pre-Clinical	Phase I/1b	Phase 1b/II	Phase III
Resten-NG (NEUGENE for Restenosis)
Oncomyc-NG (NEUGENE for Cancer)	Completed	Completed	Completed
AVI-4126 (NEUGENE for Polycystic Kidney Disease)	Completed	Completed	Completed
AVI-4126 (NEUGENE for CABG)	Completed	Planned	Planned
AVI-4126 (NEUGENE for Lung Cancer/Lymphoma)	Completed	Planned	Planned
AVI-4557 (NEUGENE for drug metabolism)	Completed	3 Completed	Completed
AVI-4557 (NEUGENE for Cancer)	Completed	Planned
AVI-4xxx (NEUGENE for Cholesterol)	Completed	Planned
AVI-4XXX (NEUGENE for Prostate Cancer)	Completed	Planned
AVI-4020 (NEUGENE for West Nile Virus)	Completed	Planned	Planned

Our costs for a clinical trial for AVI typically range between $300,000 and $500,000 for a Phase I trial, between $500,000 and $4 million for a Phase II trial and could range between $5 and $50 million for a Phase III trial. Because the scope, timing and issues encountered in each trial vary, we cannot predict the exact costs associated with a particular trial in advance. For the same reasons, we cannot predict the nature, timing and costs of future studies or trials for a product, how a product will proceed toward and through Phase III clinical trials and, if Phase III clinical trials are successful, when and if FDA approval will be sought and received.

BUSINESS STRATEGY

Our strategy is to:

reduce risk associated with product development by exploiting two core technologies;

select gene targets with broad or multiple disease applications; manage drug discovery, pre-clinical and early to mid-stage clinical development in-house; and co-develop or license products to strategic partners during or after completion of Phase II clinical trials to enhance value and share the costs of late stage clinical trials and commercialization.

NEUGENE Antisense Technology

Technical Overview

Most human diseases arise from the function or dysfunction of genes within the body, either those of pathogens, such as viruses, or of one's own genes. The Human Genome Project has led to the identification of all of the genes and many of the gene sequences associated with most major human diseases. Using modern methods of chemical synthesis, drug candidates can be synthesized that recognize selected gene sequences in a pathogen or pathogenic process. When these compounds bind tightly to the disease-causing sequence, the genetic process is inhibited, and thus the pathogen or pathogenic process is disabled. This is called antisense technology because the sense of the genetic code is blocked.

Antisense compounds are composed of repeating subunits that are linked together forming a polymer, referred to as the antisense backbone. Each subunit carries a genetic letter that pairs with its corresponding letter in the gene sequence. Although the genetic letters are a feature common to all antisense compounds, the structure of the subunits and the linkage groups that string them together may differ greatly. These differences in the subunits and the linkages define the different types of antisense backbones and their corresponding physical and biological properties. Our NEUGENE technology is distinguished from all other antisense technologies by the characteristics of our patented antisense backbone. The subunits which carry the genetic letters on our backbone are synthetic subunits rather than modified natural materials. In addition, the linkages used to string the subunits together carry no charge in our backbone. We believe these differences provide pharmaceutical advantages that are critical for antisense drug development to meet the challenges of broad clinical utility.

The first generation of antisense compounds had backbones composed of natural genetic materials and linkages. These natural compounds were degraded or broken down by enzymes in the blood and within cells and had difficulty crossing cellular membranes to enter the cells that contained their genetic target. Modified or second generation backbones were developed to resist degradation by enzymes and to enter tissues and cells more efficiently. The most common of these types, the phosphorothioate backbones used by ISIS Pharmaceuticals, Inc., Genta Incorporated, and others, use natural or modified DNA subunits linked together by a charged linkage. After extensive investigation, we concluded that these early product candidates lacked the pharmaceutical properties desirable for broad clinical utility. We abandoned development of similar structures in 1988 and started development of a novel backbone chemistry designed to address these drawbacks.

NEUGENE Technology

We have developed and patented a new class of antisense compounds, known as NEUGENES, which have a backbone of synthetic subunits carrying each genetic letter, with each subunit linked together by a patented uncharged linkage group. We believe our principal competitive advantage in the antisense area is the chemical structure of the NEUGENE backbone that we developed specifically to have the following pharmaceutical properties:

STABILITY: Biological stability is principally determined by the degree of resistance to enzymatic degradation. Because the NEUGENE backbone is a unique synthetic structure, there are no enzymes found in man to degrade it. Our NEUGENE drugs have been shown to be completely stable in our human clinical trials.

EFFICACY AND SPECIFICITY: Efficacy refers to the efficiency with which antisense compounds block selected gene targets. In direct comparisons with other technologies, our NEUGENE compounds exhibited significantly better efficacy in inhibition of targeted genetic sequences and substantially greater specificity.

DELIVERY: To reach their targets, antisense compounds must cross tissue and cellular barriers, including cellular and nuclear membranes. Our extensive research in the last four years has shown that NEUGENE antisense compounds achieve functional delivery in a variety of animal models and in human clinical trials.

SAFETY: Our Phase I human clinical trial results indicate that NEUGENE antisense agents have an excellent safety profile, even at doses in vast excess of those anticipated for our initial human therapeutic applications.

Near-Term Product Development Cardiovascular Disease, Infectious Disease, Cancer and Other Applications

The first application of our antisense technology is designed to treat diseases involving abnormal cell division, such as cancer and certain cardiovascular and inflammatory diseases, including restenosis, polycystic kidney disease and chronic graft rejection. The NEUGENE target for these diseases is the genetic component named c-myc. We have finished pre-clinical development of three NEUGENE drugs, Resten-NG and Oncomyc-NG and AVI-4126, based on this target. In late 1999, we filed an Investigational New Drug Application, or IND, and initiated a Phase I clinical trial for cardiovascular restenosis and cancer. These Phase I safety studies in 32 patients completed in April 2000 showed these compounds to be safe and essentially non-toxic.

Pre-clinical studies with Resten-NG indicated that it was both more effective and less toxic than other compounds currently in clinical development for restenosis, a frequent complication that follows balloon angioplasty for coronary artery disease. Our studies also indicated significant preservation of vessel passageways and prevention of arterial wall thickening following catheter delivery of Resten-NG. We commenced Phase II human clinical trials, involving about 100 patients, in cardiovascular restenosis in June 2000 and finished this study in late 2002. Restenosis, the blockage of the arteries following balloon angioplasty, affects 100,000 to 200,000 people per year in the United States and its occurrence is unpredictable. We believe Resten-NG, with its combination of potency and lack of toxicity, may be useful as a preventative measure in the more than one million balloon angioplasty procedures performed worldwide each year.

Edgar Filing: AVI BIOPHARMA INC - Form S-3

Our entry into infectious disease applications initially is targeting viral diseases. We have finished pre-clinical development of our antisense drug for West Nile Virus and have filed a pre IND application and an application for orphan drug status. West Nile virus is a single-strand RNA virus and representative of a category of viruses amenable to antisense targeting. Viruses of similar genetic makeup that we are actively pursuing in the drug development program include calicivirus, coronavirus, Hepatitis C virus, and Norwalk virus.

West Nile virus made 4,156 people ill and killed 284 in the United States and Canada last year. West Nile virus infections and human illnesses first appeared in the United States in the New York City metropolitan area in the fall of 1999. The virus infects birds and other animals and can be transmitted by mosquitoes, the main reservoir for this agent. U.S. health officials say the disease now has a permanent home in the United States. Last year it spread to 44 states, Washington, D.C., and five Canadian provinces. West Nile virus has spread to 230 species of animals, including 130 species of birds.

We have finished pre-clinical development of our second and third NEUGENE drugs, Oncomyc-NG, for cancer indications, and AVI-4126, for polycystic kidney disease (PKD). We have finished a pilot Phase 1b trial with Oncomyc-NG in patients with different types of cancer and a Phase 1b clinical trial in patients with PKD. Both trials were initiated in 2001 and finished in 2002.

Another NEUGENE antisense target for clinical development is Cytochrome P450 3A4 (CYP 3A4). This gene target codes for a liver enzymes responsible for the metabolism (break down) of drugs in the body. By blocking this gene expression, the liver cannot make the CYP 3A4 enzyme and drugs that are metabolized by this enzyme stay active in the body much longer. The CYP 3A4 enzyme controls the break down of about half of all current FDA approved drugs. We have finished extensive pre-clinical studies on this NEUGENE agent and moved into Phase 1b clinical studies in fall 2001. Phase I safety studies were finished in fall 2001 and efficacy studies were finished in the first and fourth quarters of 2002. This approach has the potential to improve the effectiveness and/or lower the toxicity of many existing drugs, including those with large proven markets.

The broad applicability of our antisense platform has allowed us to initiate pre-clinical and clinical development of NEUGENE drugs for several other indications as outlined in the following table.

The table below summarizes our broader development program for NEUGENE:

NEUGENE ANTISENSE DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM

Antisense Target	Clinical Indication
c-myc	Cancer, restenosis, polycystic kidney disease
CYP 3A4	Drug metabolism
NF kappa B	Arthritis, chronic inflammation
TNF alpha	Arthritis, septic shock, asthma
HMG CoA reductase	Cholesterol lowering
Androgen receptor	Prostate cancer
TGF beta	Stem cell expansion
Bacterial targets	Antibiotics for infectious disease
West Nile virus, Hepatitis C virus	Viral infection, hepatitis

CANCER IMMUNOTHERAPY

Cancer is the second leading cause of death in the United States with an incidence of 1,500 deaths per day. There are approximately eight million Americans living with a history of cancer, and over 500,000 new cases are diagnosed annually. Lung, prostate, breast and colorectal cancers are the four most common types of cancer, accounting for over 50% of all new diagnoses. In 2000, the market opportunities for drugs to treat each of these cancer types were estimated to be in excess of $1 billion annually.

The principal therapy available for patients with advance forms of cancer traditionally has been chemotherapy. Chemotherapeutic approaches produce considerable toxic and undesirable side effects and historically have done little to influence patient survival.

Immunotherapy with vaccines or antibodies is among the newer strategies being investigated for treating cancer. Historically, vaccines were developed and used to induce an immune response in order to prevent a disease. In contrast, therapeutic vaccines are administered when the patient already has the disease.

For a therapeutic vaccine to be effective in fighting a disease such as cancer, it is necessary to first identify a specific target associated with cancer cells. The more selective the target associated with cancer is, the greater the likelihood that the stimulated immune response will be effective in fighting cancer growth. The identification of a unique hormone associated with most cancers led to the development of our vaccine approach.

AVICINE THERAPEUTIC CANCER VACCINE

Technical Overview

AVICINE, our therapeutic cancer vaccine, is designed to produce an immune response against a well-known hormone, human chorionic gonadotropin (hCG), that was found to be associated with most cancers. The hCG hormone is produced during pregnancy and plays a central role in fostering the development of the fetus. Through extensive research, scientists found that hCG is also present in most cancers and is believed to promote growth like it promotes fetal growth.

The hCG component (antigen) in AVICINE is a small peptide from this hormone. The peptide is joined to a carrier, diphtheria toxoid, to enhance the immune response. Diphtheria toxoid was selected since most of the world's population has been vaccinated against it and there is significant experience with it as a vaccine component in man. The combination stimulates an immune response to the hCG peptide which recognizes the hormone and eliminates it from the body. This means that in vaccinated individuals, the hCG hormone could not function in pregnancy nor in cancer. If this hormone promotes cancer like it promotes fetal development, then immunized cancer patients may have improved survival. AVICINE is based on this premise.

AVICINE Clinical Trials

We have completed three Phase I clinical trials using AVICINE in 87 patients with cancer. Overall, these studies showed AVICINE to be safe and essentially non-toxic, and to be effective in stimulating an immune response to hCG in most patients. Moreover, apparent survival benefits and some tumor regressions were noted.

Colorectal Cancer Trials

A multicenter Phase II study of AVICINE was conducted in 77 patients with advanced colorectal cancer in 1997-1999. The objectives of this trial were to determine whether administration of AVICINE would induce an immune response in patients with metastatic colorectal cancer, and to measure safety and efficacy in these patients. Overall, 51 of the 77 patients responded to our vaccine by producing antibodies to hCG. The patients that were antibody responders had a median survival of 42 weeks. Patients who did not respond had a median survival of just 17 weeks.

Further analysis of the multicenter Phase II data showed that patients who produced antibodies to both targets on the hCG peptide had a median survival of 66 weeks. Camptosar®, the current standard of care for treating advanced colorectal cancer patients, produces a median survival of 37-40 weeks.

Overall, these clinical data suggest that the patients who received AVICINE and responded by making hCG antibodies had improved median survival compared to patients treated with chemotherapeutic drugs. AVICINE was found to be safe and did not exhibit the toxicity associated with cytotoxic drug treatment in each of the study arms.

Pancreatic Cancer Trial

We have completed two Phase II trials in pancreatic cancer, the first of which was a pilot Phase II study using AVICINE in 10 patients with advanced pancreatic cancer. In this study, the median survival was approximately 33 weeks. Patients with advanced pancreatic cancer are currently treated with chemotherapy and have a median survival of approximately 18 to 25 weeks.

Based on these results we conducted a second multi-center trial with 54 patients with pancreatic cancer. Patients were randomized to two arms, treatment with AVICINE alone or AVICINE in combination with Eli Lilly's drug Gemzar. Historically patients treated with Gemzar exhibit a median survival of about 23 weeks and a 15% one-year survival rate. This study was completed in late 2001 and showed that median survival in both of the treatment arms were essentially equivalent to Gemzar. Importantly, patients treated with AVICINE alone showed less toxicity compared to patients receiving Gemzar. The one-year survival in the AVICINE alone arm was similar to Gemzar at about 15% while the combination of the two drugs showed 30% survival at one year, a statistically significant improvement.

AVICINE CLINICAL TRIALS

TRIAL	DESCRIPTION &amp; TYPE	PATIENTS	STATUS
1	Phase I safety study	43 treated	Completed
2	Phase I metastatic cancer	21 treated	Completed
3	Phase Ib metastatic cancer	23 treated	Completed
4	Phase II pancreatic and extension	10 treated	Completed
5	Phase II colorectal	77 treated	Completed
6	Phase II pancreatic	543 treated	Completed
7	Phase III pancreatic trial	600	Planned
8	Phase II colorectal trial	100	Planned

We have drawn the following conclusions from completing 6 clinical trials with AVICINE. First, this vaccine is safe and essentially non-toxic. Second, AVICINE stimulates an immune response to hCG in cancer patients that is effective at functionally eliminating the biological effects of hCG. Third, cancer patients that responded to the vaccine had benefits compared to chemotherapy due to less toxicity, improved survival, or both. Based upon these conclusions, we believe that AVICINE has as good a chance of approval following Phase III trials as any new drug in cancer development.

COLLABORATIVE AGREEMENTS

We believe that our cancer vaccine and antisense technologies are broadly applicable for the potential development of pharmaceutical products in many therapeutic areas. To exploit our core technologies as fully as possible, our strategy is to enter into collaborative development agreements with major pharmaceutical companies for all cancer applications with our vaccine, and agreements directed at specific molecular targets for our NEUGENE antisense technology. It is anticipated that NEUGENE antisense collaborative research agreements may provide us with some funding for internal programs aimed at discovering and developing antisense compounds to inhibit the production of additional molecular targets. Partners in antisense may be granted options to obtain licenses to co-develop and to market drug candidates resulting from their collaborative research programs. We intend to retain manufacturing rights to our antisense products. There can be no assurance, however, that we will be able to enter into collaborative research agreements with large pharmaceutical companies on terms and conditions satisfactory to us. The agreements described in this "Collaborative Agreements" section are generally only cancelable for nonperformance, including failure to make any payments and, in some cases, failure to commercially exploit the technology. There is no assurance the proposed products will be successfully developed under these collaborative arrangements or we will receive any of the potential payments noted herein.

SuperGen Alliance

In April 2000, we entered into an alliance with SuperGen, Inc. ("SuperGen") for shared development and marketing rights for AVICINE. Under the terms of the agreement, SuperGen and AVI will equally share clinical development and FDA registration costs going forward and share profit equally from product sales in the United States. Our share of such costs are expected to approximate $10 million over the next two to three years and up to $15 million in the aggregate with remaining development expected to take at least three to four years. We will be responsible for the manufacturing of AVICINE and SuperGen will be responsible for marketing and sales. AVICINE clinical development efforts are outlined under "Business-Neugene Antisense Development Programs," " AVICINE Therapeutic Cancer Vaccine," " AVICINE Clinical Trials." In May 2000, we received a $20 million equity investment from SuperGen and could receive additional payments of up to $80 million based upon achievement of commercialization milestones. Those payments include the following milestone payments, plus certain payments based on product sales (i) $2.5 million in SuperGen stock or cash, upon each completion of a Phase III trial for the pharmaceutical product containing AVICINE or a derivative thereof as an active ingredient and (ii) acceptance by the FDA of New Drug Acceptance ("NDA") and (iii) $5 million in SuperGen stock or cash, upon the date the first commercial sale of a pharmaceutical product containing AVICINE or a derivative thereof as an active ingredient occurs within the United States. Commercialization cash milestone payments occur at the following annual sales levels: $100 million, $250 million, $500 million, and $1 billion. Payments to AVI occur at the first achievement of these sales levels and increase from $10 million to $25 million in $5 million increments, with a maximum of one milestone payment per year.

Unless terminated earlier, our agreement with SuperGen expires upon the earlier of (i) the date upon which a generic version of the product is first sold in the U.S. by someone other than Super Gen or (ii) the date which is 15 years after the date of regulatory approval of AVICINE in the United States, subject to certain extension rights.

NEUGENE Alliances

We anticipate that NEUGENE antisense collaborative research agreements may provide us with funding for internal programs aimed at discovering and developing antisense compounds to inhibit the production of additional molecular targets. Partners in antisense may be granted options to obtain licenses to co-develop and to market drug candidates resulting from their collaborative research programs. We currently have a research alliance with XTL Biopharmaceuticals Ltd. for pre-clinical development of Hepatitis B and C antisense drugs. If this program moves into clinical development stages, XTL and we will negotiate a joint venture development and marketing agreement with XTL under basic terms previously set forth. None of these agreements obligate us to spend any particular amounts in exploiting products. We expect to expend approximately $3 million on development efforts over the next two years related to these products.

Exelixis Agreement

In April 2000, we entered into an alliance with Exelixis Inc. ("Exelixis") for functional genomics and antisense drug development. Under the terms of the agreement, Exelixis will apply its expertise in genetic model systems to discover, validate and screen novel targets suitable for inhibition by antisense therapeutics. We will design and synthesize NEUGENE morpholinos for use as drugs and conduct preclinical and clinical studies on antisense drug candidates arising from the collaboration. We expect to expend approximately $3 million over the next two years in developing products under the agreement and up to $10 million in the aggregate. The collaborative research project and our obligations to supply PMOs to Exelixis under the agreement expires April 30, 2006. Except as noted, we and Exelixis will jointly own, and Exelixis has an option to co-develop with us, certain antisense products that arise from the alliance. To date, five targets have been identified which will undergo further preclinical study.

In the event we and Exelixis co-fund the development of any antisense therapeutic and/or commercialization of any product, the parties will jointly have a world-wide, co-exclusive license and will equally share profits with respect to any such co-funded product in lieu of royalties. Product is defined by our agreement with Exelixis as any human therapeutic or prophylactic product which received regulatory approval that contains or comprises an antisense therapeutic.

Under our agreement with Exelixis, an "Exelixis Product" is defined as, and is deemed to exist when we decide to terminate the development of a co-funded antisense therapeutic and/or commercialization of a particular co-funded product that is being co-funded by Exelixis, and Exelixis assumes the costs and obligations of the continued development of the co-funded antisense therapeutic and/or commercialization of such co-funded product (Exelixis Product"). Similarly, an AVI product is one that is funded by us and not co-funded by Exelixis ("AVI Product").

Generally, a 3% or 5% royalty on net sales is payable by the developing party on products covered by the agreement that are not jointly developed. Generally, a party's right to receive royalties expires on a country-by-country basis upon the later of (i) 12 years from the first commercial sale of such product in that country; or (ii) expiration of the last to expire Exelixis patent or AVI patent in such country claiming the antisense therapeutic in such AVI product or such AVI product or the manufacture, use or sale of such product.

Medtronic Agreement

In May 2001, we entered into a licensing arrangement with Medtronic wherein Medtronic received exclusive rights for certain antisense compounds, for use in conjunction with Medtronic devices, to combat vascular disease, including restenosis. We also entered into a supply agreement to provide product to Medtronic. Under an investment agreement, we received a $10 million equity investment from Medtronic
