(f) Messrs. Cohen, Stark, Strauss and Solomon are citizens of the United States of America.

Item 3. Source and Amount of Funds or Other Consideration.

The Shares purchased by Starboard and Parche were purchased with the working capital of such entities (which may, at any given time, include margin loans made by brokerage firms in the ordinary course of business) in open market purchases, except as otherwise noted, as set forth in Schedule A, which is incorporated by reference herein. The aggregate purchase cost of the 929,900 Shares beneficially owned in the aggregate by all of the Reporting Persons is approximately $19,782,142, including brokerage commissions.

Certain Shares reported in this Schedule 13D as owned by Parche were acquired in private transactions with various transferors for which Ramius Capital or an affiliate serves as the investment manager, the managing member or the managing member of the investment manager. Ramius Capital is the sole member of Admiral Advisors, which is the managing member of Parche. Parche acquired from such transferors an aggregate of 109,344 Shares on November 30, 2006. Such transferors had, within the 60 days prior to the filing of the Schedule 13D, effected the following transactions in the Shares:

The Reporting Persons do not believe that the information contained in this paragraph is called for by the Items of Schedule 13D and are disclosing it for supplemental informational purposes only.

Item 4. Purpose of Transaction.

The Reporting Persons purchased the Shares based on the Reporting Persons' belief that the Shares, when purchased, were significantly undervalued and represented an attractive investment opportunity. Depending upon overall market conditions, other investment opportunities available to the Reporting Persons, and the availability of Shares at prices that would make the purchase of additional Shares desirable, the Reporting Persons may endeavor to increase their position in the Issuer through, among other things, the purchase of Shares on the open market or in private transactions or otherwise, on such terms and at such times as the Reporting Persons may deem advisable.

On December 4, 2006, Admiral Advisors delivered a letter to the President and Chief Executive Officer of the Issuer expressing its belief that the Issuer's Shares are significantly undervalued and highlighting several concerns about certain aspects of the strategy and direction of the Issuer. The letter is attached hereto as Exhibit 2 and is incorporated herein by reference. In the letter, Admiral Advisors recommends that the Issuer repurchase its stock and pursue a sale of the Issuer's PVC Pipe business and urges the Issuer to delay its pursuit of any acquisitions until after these recommended courses of action are implemented.

No Reporting Person has any present plan or proposal which would relate to or result in any of the matters set forth in subparagraphs (a) - (j) of Item 4 of Schedule 13D except as set forth herein or such as would occur upon completion of any of the actions discussed above. The Reporting Persons intend to review their investment in the Issuer on a continuing basis and engage in discussions with management and the Board of Directors of the Issuer concerning the business, operations and future plans of the Issuer. Depending on various factors including, without limitation, the Issuer's financial position and investment strategy, the price levels of the Shares, conditions in the securities markets and general economic and industry conditions, the Reporting Persons may in the future take such actions with respect to their investment in the Issuer as they deem appropriate including, without limitation, seeking Board representation, making proposals to the Issuer concerning changes to the capitalization, ownership structure or operations of the Issuer, purchasing additional Shares, selling some or all of their Shares, engaging in short selling of or any hedging or similar transaction with respect to the Shares or changing their intention with respect to any and all matters referred to in Item 4.

ADMIRAL ADVISORS LETTERHEAD

December 4, 2006

Lamson & Sessions Co.

CC: Board of Directors

Michael,

As we have discussed in several meetings and conference calls with Jim Abel, we believe Lamson & Sessions (LMS or the Company) is significantly undervalued. As a 5.9% owner, and one of the largest shareholders of LMS, we are writing in advance of the special shareholder meeting scheduled for December 15, 2006 to highlight several concerns about certain aspects of the strategy and direction of the Company. We believe that the Company's current path is not in the best long-term interest of shareholders.

In particular, we believe that Lamson & Sessions has a terrific opportunity to build upon the strong brand names and value-added product portfolios of the Carlon and Lamson Home Products businesses. Those opportunities deserve the full attention of management and the Board of Directors. The PVC Pipe business, however, is highly cyclical, volatile, and a distraction to the management team. We firmly believe that the PVC Pipe business hinders the value of LMS, and we strongly urge the Company to pursue a competitive sale process for PVC Pipe immediately.

Over the past several years, the Carlon and Lamson Home Products businesses, which represent approximately 70% of revenue, have shown consistent improvements in revenue and operating income driven by strong end market demand, the ability to pass through raw material price increases to customers, and significant process improvements including manufacturing automation, inventory management, and distribution efficiencies. Carlon's revenue has grown by approximately 42% from $188 million in 2001 to $267 million expected for 2006, and operating margin has improved from 7.8% in 2001 to 14.8% expected for 2006. This represents a 7.3% revenue compound annual growth rate (CAGR) and a 700 basis point improvement in operating margin. Lamson Home Products revenue has grown by approximately 84% from $62 million in 2001 to $114 million expected for 2006, and operating margin has improved from 6.0% in 2001 to 13.2% expected for 2006. This represents a 12.9% revenue CAGR and a 720 basis point improvement in operating margin.

Even more important than these historical improvements, however, is that our industry analysis indicates that these businesses should continue to show consistent and sustainable long-term growth and margin improvement as LMS continues to penetrate deeper into their respective end markets. In 2007, analysts expect Carlon and Lamson Home Products to grow revenue 11.2% and 10.0%, respectively. Carlon and Lamson Home Products, in our opinion, are well positioned to continue on the trajectory of profitable growth and, therefore, deserve the full and undistracted attention of management and the Board.

Conversely, despite meaningful operational improvements over the past several years in plant automation and distribution, the PVC Pipe business, which represents the remaining 30% of revenues, continues to be extremely volatile based on cyclical end market demand and high correlation to raw material input costs. Despite tremendous performance in 2006, with EBITDA approaching the $30 million level, 2007 is expected to be significantly weaker driven by a revenue decline of 16.9% and operating margin deterioration of 1,030 basis points from 14.1% to 3.8%.

From a valuation perspective, we feel that a sale of the PVC Pipe business will significantly enhance shareholder value by bringing in additional cash resources to the Company while removing the negative perception and distraction associated with the Company's exposure to the highly cyclical and volatile PVC pipe market. Based on both our analysis of the current market conditions and the relative valuation of a comparable public company currently exploring a sale process, we believe that the PVC Pipe business can be sold now for a value in the range of $35 million to $70 million. This valuation range is based on conversations with financial buyers and industry experts who believe the PVC Pipe business would be valued in a sale at between 5.0x and 7.0x normalized EBITDA. We have estimated normalized revenue and operating margins in a range of $125 million to $150 million and 2.8% - 4.2%, respectively. Using these assumptions, a sale of the PVC Pipe business could produce between $2.22 and $4.44 per share of gross proceeds that could either be redeployed into Carlon and Lamson Home Products or returned to shareholders. To the extent that there is strategic interest in the asset, we believe a sale price could be even higher than under our assumptions. We understand that there may be some customer overlap between the PVC Pipe business and Carlon. We believe that a well-structured agreement could be negotiated that would enable a sale of the PVC Pipe business without materially impacting sales and profitability at Carlon.

As we have told Mr. Abel, we believe that without the exposure to the PVC pipe end market, Carlon and Lamson Home Products would command a valuation multiple approaching the levels of other electrical and building products companies shown below, which are materially above the current LMS valuation.

The Company's management has recently stated in several presentations and conference calls that the strategy going forward will be to pursue acquisitions to diversify away from the commodity-driven PVC Pipe business and expand further into industrial and commercial products. However, according to our research, recent M&A transactions in the commercial / industrial products segment have traded at multiples in the 7.0x - 10.0x Enterprise Value / LTM EBITDA range, which is significantly higher than Lamson & Sessions' current valuation of 4.1x Enterprise Value / LTM EBITDA and 5.9x Enterprise Value / 2007E EBITDA. Furthermore, the Company recently increased the size of its credit facility from $125 million up to a maximum of $300 million and called a special shareholder meeting to double the Company's share authorization from 20 million shares to 40 million shares to facilitate the issuance of shares for future acquisitions. In addition, over the past several quarters, the Company has repaid all but the term loan portion of its debt and with its new facility in place will most likely be close to debt-free at the end of 2006.

Based on the issues we have outlined above, we believe that the Company's current strategy is somewhat backward. Lamson & Sessions should not be making any acquisitions at this time. More specifically, the Company should not be issuing stock for acquisitions as it would presumably be paying a significantly higher multiple than LMS stock trades for today, creating dilution for current shareholders. Nor should the Company be using cash for acquisitions as it would be meaningfully more accretive to current shareholders for LMS to repurchase its own stock given the wide discrepancy in valuation between LMS stock and comparable transaction multiples.

Therefore, rather than pursuing an acquisition strategy now to diversify away from the PVC Pipe business, we believe the Company should address the valuation discrepancy at its core by repurchasing $60 million - $120 million of its stock, representing approximately 15% - 30% of the current shares outstanding, and selling the PVC Pipe business. Pending the successful completion of a transaction, it is our view that the stock price of LMS would accrete, closing the gap in valuation with its closest peers. At that time, the Company would have a much stronger stock currency, supported by a healthy balance sheet, to pursue strategic acquisitions that leverage the Carlon and Lamson Home Products brand names and distribution channels.

We have chosen to express these views now because we are disturbed by the apparent sense of urgency to execute on acquisitions. To this end, we are particularly concerned about the urgently called special shareholder meeting to authorize the issuance of up to an additional 20 million shares, which if approved, would double the share authorization from 20 million shares to 40 million shares. According to the Company's proxy statement dated November 16, 2006, the Company currently has no specific plans to issue the additional common shares. However, this special meeting is scheduled just four months in advance of the regular annual shareholder meeting. We are alarmed that this apparent sense of urgency suggests LMS is eager to prepare for a transaction that has not yet even been identified and which we believe may not be in the best interest of Lamson & Sessions shareholders.

In summary, we strongly believe that it would be a disservice to shareholders to make any acquisitions before repurchasing LMS stock at current valuation levels and pursuing an auction process to divest the PVC Pipe business. Regardless of whether the shareholders approve the additional share authorization, management and the Board need to know that we, as one of the largest LMS shareholders, expect the Company to repurchase stock and explore a sale of the PVC Pipe business before any acquisitions take place especially since any target company would likely be acquired at multiples far in excess of where LMS is currently trading.

We would appreciate your consideration of the topics we have highlighted above and would be happy to discuss these views with you and the rest of the Board of Directors at your convenience. We look forward to continuing our discussions and are confident that the best interest of all shareholders will remain of paramount importance.

Best Regards,
