Siemens implements previously announced reorientation at IT subsidiary SBS Product Related Services business sold to Fujitsu Siemens Computers

Siemens has sold the Product Related Services (PRS) unit of Siemens Business Services (SBS) to Fujitsu Siemens Computers BV, effective April 1, 2006. A contract governing the sale has been signed today. Financial details were not disclosed. With this sale, Siemens is implementing the reorientation of its IT subsidiary that it had announced some time ago. SBS will now focus fully on IT services in the outsourcing market and those for innovative IT projects. The transaction is subject to the approval of antitrust authorities.

In PRS, SBS is selling a unit with some 5,000 employees worldwide and sales of about 1.3 billion euros in the past fiscal year (September 30, 2005). At Fujitsu Siemens Computers, PRS will be integrated as a whole and form the core of a new service unit.

Following the sale of PRS, SBS will concentrate on the two areas Operation Related Services and Solutions. These areas form the heart of the Group, accounting for more than three-fourths of SBS revenues of about 5.4 billion euros in fiscal 2005.

We are pleased to have found the right partner for our Product Related Services unit. Fujitsu Siemens Computers is eager to lastingly strengthen its portfolio in this area and has clearly defined this as a strategic objective, said Dr. Klaus Kleinfeld, President and CEO of Siemens AG. In acquiring PRS, he noted, Fujitsu Siemens Computers is following the trend in the IT product business of offering hardware and related services from a single source. Kleinfeld continued, SBS will now focus completely on restructuring and developing its core business. In the future SBS will cooperate with Fujitsu Siemens Computers or other partners to offer product-related services as a part of its outsourcing and solutions projects, he said.
