PRESS RELEASE

Amsterdam, 16 December 2002

Edgar Filing: ING GROEP NV - Form 6-K

ING sells Fatum (Netherlands Antilles and Aruba) to Guardian Holdings Limited

Today, ING reached an agreement with Guardian Holdings Limited (GHL) of Trinidad and Tobago to sell its Fatum operations. Fatum is active in life-, non life and health insurance in the Netherlands Antilles and Aruba. The sale of Fatum fits into the continual process of active portfolio management within ING. The closing of the transaction is anticipated by the end of 2002.

A key consideration for ING was to ensure Fatum is positioned for long-term growth and that it can enter markets outside the Netherlands Antilles and Aruba, form strategic alliances and grow as a regional insurer. Considering the interests of its policyholders, agents and employees, ING concluded that Fatum would be better positioned as a part of Guardian Holding Limited. This transaction should have no implications for Fatum's present employees. The policyholders of Fatum can continue to rely on the security that their current insurance offers, said Fred Hubbell, Executive Board member of ING Group.

Fatum is a dominant player in the insurance market in the Netherlands Antilles and Aruba. Since 1904, Fatum has been operational on Curaçao, Bonaire, the Windward Islands, and Aruba. Its head office is located on Curaçao. Through a network of independent brokers, Fatum sells non-life, life, pension and health insurance and employs 190 people.

Guardian Holdings Limited is a major Caribbean publicly owned financial services company with assets in excess of USD 1 billion. GHL is engaged in all classes of long term, accident & health and general insurance business, employee benefits and asset management.

ING has recently completed the domestication process for its Fatum operations in the Netherlands Antilles and Aruba, which have been transformed into new local legal entities.
