King & Co., Inc. to assist in soliciting proxies at an anticipated cost of $9,500 plus expenses. PROPOSAL 1: ELECTION OF DIRECTORS

Each member of the Board of Directors of Arrow (the "Board") is to be elected at the meeting to hold office until the next Annual Meeting of Shareholders and until his or her successor has been duly elected and qualified. By resolution of all the current directors, the Board will consist of ten directors unless and until that number is changed by a resolution of the then current Board. Shareholder proxies solicited under this proxy statement cannot be voted for more than ten directors.

The Board of Directors recommends a vote for all of the nominees.

Nominees receiving a plurality of votes cast at the meeting will be elected directors. Consequently, any shares not voted (whether by abstention or broker non-votes) have no effect on the election of directors.

Management does not contemplate that any of the nominees will be unable or unwilling to serve as a director, but should that happen prior to the voting of the proxies, the persons named in the accompanying proxy reserve the right to substitute another person of their choice when voting at the meeting.

Table of Contents

THE BOARD AND ITS COMMITTEES

The Board meets in general sessions under Chairman Duval, in meetings limited to non-management directors, which are also led by Chairman Duval, and in its various committees. At the Board meeting following the Annual Meeting of Shareholders, the Board intends to elect Mr. Mitchell as Chairman and Mr. Duval as Lead Director. As Lead Director, Mr. Duval will continue to serve as chairman of all meetings of non-management directors.

Committees

The audit committee of the Board consists of Mr. Patrick, as Chairman, Mr. Hill, Mrs. Keeth, Mrs. Mills, and Mr. Waddell. The audit committee reviews and evaluates Arrow's financial reporting process and other matters including its accounting policies, reporting practices, internal audit function, and internal accounting controls. The committee also monitors the scope and reviews the results of the audit conducted by Arrow's independent auditors. The Board has determined that Mr. Patrick is an audit committee financial expert as defined by the SEC. In light of the possibility that Mr. Patrick might at some time be unable to attend a meeting of the committee, the Board has also determined that Mrs. Keeth qualifies as an audit committee financial expert.

The compensation committee of the Board consists of Mr. Perry, as Chairman, Mr. Duval, Mrs. Keeth, Mr. King, and Mrs. Mills. The compensation committee determines the salary of the Chief Executive Officer, reviews and approves the salaries and the incentive compensation of senior corporate officers, grants or approves awards under the Omnibus Incentive Plan, and implements the company's short-term incentive plans. The committee also advises the Board generally with regard to other compensation and employee benefit matters, and collects information in connection with the evaluation of the performance of the Chief Executive Officer.

The corporate governance committee of the Board consists of Mr. Hanson, as Chairman, Mr. Duval, Mr. Hill, Mr. King, and Mr. Waddell. The corporate governance committee will consider shareholder recommendations for nominees for membership on the Board. Such recommendations may be submitted to Arrow's Secretary, Peter S. Brown, at Arrow Electronics, Inc., 50 Marcus Drive, Melville, New York, 11747, who will forward them to the corporate governance committee. The committee's expectations as to the specific qualities and skills required for directors are set forth in Section 4 of Arrow's corporate governance guidelines (available at the investor relations section of the company's website, www.arrow.com). Under those guidelines, the committee considers potential nominees recommended by current directors, company officers, employees, shareholders, and others. The committee has retained the services of a third-party executive recruitment firm to assist committee members in the identification and evaluation of potential nominees for the Board. The committee's initial review of the potential candidate is typically based on any written materials provided to the committee. In connection with the evaluation of potential nominees, the committee determines whether to interview the nominee, and if warranted, the committee, the Chairman of the Board, the Chief Executive Officer, and others as appropriate, interview the potential nominees. The corporate governance committee also has primary responsibility for developing the corporate governance guidelines for Arrow and for making recommendations with respect to committee assignments and other governance issues. The committee regularly reviews and makes recommendations to the Board regarding the compensation of non-employee directors.

Independence

The company's corporate governance guidelines provide that the Board should consist primarily of independent, non-management directors. For a director to be considered independent under the guidelines, the Board must determine that the director does not have any direct or indirect material relationship with the company and that he or she is not involved in any activity or interest that might appear to conflict with his or her fiduciary duties to the company.

Each independent non-management director must also satisfy the Director Qualification Standards adopted by the Board, which essentially incorporate the independence criteria in the New York Stock Exchange listing standards. Neither such a director nor any member of his or her immediate family may: i) be an employee (or, in the case of a family member, an executive officer) of the company during the preceding three years; ii) receive more than $100,000 from the company (except for director or committee fees) during any twelve-month period within the preceding three years; iii) be employed by or be a partner of the company's outside audit firm (or, if a former employee or partner, have worked on the audit of the company within the past three years); iv) be an executive officer of another company where any of Arrow's executive officers serves as a member of that other company's compensation committee; or v) be an employee (or, in the case of a family member, an executive officer) of a company which received payment from Arrow in excess of the larger of $1 million or 2% of such other company's gross revenues in any of the preceding three years.

In addition to applying the Director Qualification Standards, the Board will consider all relevant facts and circumstances in making an independence determination. In making this determination regarding Mr. Hill, the Board considered that Mr. Hill is an independent director of Agere Systems, Inc., a semiconductor manufacturer for which the company is an authorized distributor. In 2005, the company sold approximately $22,600,000 of Agere products worldwide, approximately 1% of Agere's total sales and .2% of the company's sales. In addition to the immateriality of the amount of sales involved, the Board determined that this relationship did not impair Mr. Hill's independence because he is an independent director of Agere, and receives compensation from Agere only in connection with his services as such. In addition, Novellus Systems, Inc., of which Mr. Hill is Chairman and CEO, purchased less than $10,000 of product from Arrow in 2005. The Board has determined that all of its directors and nominees, other than Mr. Mitchell, satisfy both the New York Stock Exchange's independence requirements and the company's guidelines.

As required by the guidelines and the New York Stock Exchange's listing rules, all members of the audit, compensation and corporate governance committees are independent, non-management directors.

No member of the compensation committee is a present or former employee of the company, except for Mr. Duval, who served as interim Chief Executive Officer from September 2002 to February 2003. Under the rules of the New York Stock Exchange, such interim service does not alter Mr. Duval's status as an independent, non-management director. No member of the compensation committee is an employee or director of any company where any employee or director of Arrow serves on the compensation committee.

All members of the audit committee also satisfy an additional SEC independence requirement, which provides that they may not accept directly or indirectly any consulting, advisory or other compensatory fee from Arrow or any of its subsidiaries other than their directors' compensation.

Table of ContentsMeetings and Attendance

In general, it is the practice of the Board for all of its non-management directors to meet in executive session at each Board meeting, with the Chairman of the Board presiding. Consistent with Arrow's corporate governance guidelines, in 2005 these non-management director meetings included one under the guidance of the chairman of the compensation committee to evaluate the performance of the Chief Executive Officer and one under the guidance of the chairman of the corporate governance committee to discuss senior management development and succession.

During 2005 there were 12 meetings of the Board, 11 meetings of the audit committee, 6 meetings of the compensation committee, and 5 meetings of the corporate governance committee. All directors attended 75% or more of all of the meetings of the Board and the committees on which they served.

It is the policy of the Board that all of its members attend the Annual Meeting of Shareholders absent exceptional cause, and all then incumbent members of the Board did so in 2005.

Directors Compensation

The independent non-management members of the Board (that is, all members except Mr. Mitchell) receive the following:

Annual fee	$ 40,000
Fee for each Board or committee meeting attended	$ 2,000
Annual fee for service as committee chair	$ 10,000

For the directors' terms beginning with the May 2006 Annual Meeting, the annual fee for non-employee directors will be increased to $50,000. As Chairman of the Board, Mr. Duval has received an additional fee of $200,000 per year. Assuming that Mr. Mitchell becomes Chairman and Mr. Duval becomes Lead Director at the Board meeting to be held immediately following the Annual Meeting of Shareholders, Mr. Duval would no longer receive the annual $200,000 Chairman's fee, but would instead receive an additional annual fee as Lead Director of restricted stock units valued at $30,000. All of such stock units would be converted to shares of common stock one year after Mr. Duval retires from the Board. Mr. Mitchell would not receive any fee for his services as Chairman, but would receive a one-time grant of 20,000 restricted shares of Arrow common stock in recognition of his appointment, which would vest upon his retirement, death, disability or a change in control of Arrow. The entire grant would be forfeited if Mr. Mitchell resigned or was terminated prior to his retirement.

Each non-employee director receives an annual grant of restricted stock units valued at $40,000 based on the fair market value of Arrow's common stock at the date of grant. The units vest one year after the grant, but are subject to a number of restrictions until one year after the recipient leaves the Board, at which point the units will be settled with the issuance of shares of Arrow stock. Beginning with the May 2006 Annual Meeting, the value of the restricted stock unit grants will be increased to $60,000 based on the fair market value of Arrow's common stock at the date of grant.

Non-employee directors may, in their discretion, defer a percentage of their annual retainers and meeting fees to be paid upon termination from the Board. Unless a non-employee director elects to defer a different percentage, 50 percent of the non-employee director's annual retainer fee is deferred and converted to phantom stock units of Arrow common stock. Upon termination of the non-employee director's service on the Board, each whole phantom stock unit, if any, credited to his or her account will be converted into one share of common stock. Other amounts that are deferred may be invested for the benefit of the director under the terms of the Non-Employee Director Deferral Plan, or should a director so choose, be converted into the phantom stock units.

In 2005, Messrs. Duval, Hanson and Patrick made personal use of an aircraft in which the company owns fractional interests, with an incremental cost to the company of $1,244 per person. The calculation of this incremental cost includes only those variable costs incurred as a result of the personal flight activity and is net of reimbursements received from Messrs. Duval, Hanson and Patrick.

Mr. Mitchell receives no fees, equity or other compensation in connection with his board or committee service.

The audit committee represents and assists the Board by overseeing the company's financial statements and internal controls, the independent auditor's qualifications and independence, and the performance of the company's internal audit function and of its independent auditor. The committee operates under the Audit Committee Charter, a copy of which is available at the investor relations section of the company's website, www.arrow.com.

The audit committee currently consists of five directors, all of whom are independent in accordance with New York Stock Exchange listing standards and other applicable regulations. The Board has determined that Mr. Patrick is an audit committee financial expert as defined by the SEC. In light of the possibility that Mr. Patrick might at some time be unable to attend a meeting of the committee, the Board has also determined that Mrs. Keeth qualifies as an audit committee financial expert.

Company management has the primary responsibility for financial statements and for the reporting process, including the establishment and maintenance of Arrow's systems of internal controls over financial reporting. The company's independent auditors are responsible for auditing the financial statements prepared by management, expressing an opinion on the conformity of those audited financial statements with generally accepted accounting principles, and auditing the company's internal controls over financial reporting and management's assessment of those controls.

In fulfilling its oversight responsibilities, the audit committee reviewed and discussed with both management and the independent auditors the company's quarterly earnings releases, quarterly reports on Form 10-Q and the 2005 Annual Report on Form 10-K. Such reviews included a discussion of critical or significant accounting policies, the reasonableness of significant judgments, the quality (not just the acceptability) of the accounting principles, the reasonableness and clarity of the financial statement disclosures, and such other matters as are required to be reviewed with them under the standards promulgated by the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board. Also discussed with both management and the independent auditors were the design and efficacy of the company's internal controls over financial reporting.

In addition, the audit committee received from and discussed with the independent auditors the written disclosure required by Independence Standards Board Standard No. 1 (Independence Discussions with Audit Committees) and considered the compatibility of non-audit services rendered to Arrow with the auditors' independence. The committee also discussed with the independent auditors those matters required to be considered by Statement on Auditing Standards No. 61 (Communication with Audit Committees), as amended.

The audit committee also discussed with the independent auditors and Arrow's internal audit group the overall scope and plans for their respective audits. The committee periodically met with the independent auditors and the internal audit group, with and without management present, to discuss the results of their examinations, their evaluations of Arrow's internal controls, and the overall quality of Arrow's financial reporting.

In reliance on these reviews and discussions, the audit committee recommended to the Board that the audited financial statements be included in the Annual Report on Form 10-K for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2005 for filing with the SEC.

PROPOSAL 2: RATIFICATION OF APPOINTMENT OF AUDITORS

Shareholders will be asked to ratify the appointment of Ernst & Young as Arrow's independent auditors for 2006. Arrow expects that representatives of Ernst & Young will be present at the meeting with the opportunity to make a statement if they desire to do so and that they will be available to answer appropriate inquiries raised at the meeting.

The Board recommends that the shareholders vote for the ratification of the appointment of Ernst & Young LLP.

COMPENSATION COMMITTEE REPORT ON EXECUTIVE COMPENSATION

The primary role of the compensation committee is to oversee compensation practices for Arrow's senior executive officers. The committee's responsibilities include reviewing salaries, benefits and other compensation of Arrow's senior executives and making recommendations to the full Board with respect to these matters. All members of the committee are independent, non-employee directors.

Compensation Philosophy

The committee and the company's senior management review the company's executive compensation and benefit programs to ensure that they are consistent with the company's compensation philosophy. In keeping with the overarching principles of that philosophy, the company's compensation and benefit programs must achieve the following objectives:

- support the achievement of Arrow's vision, business strategy, and operating imperatives;
- reinforce a high-performance culture with clear emphasis on accountability and variable pay;
- align the interests of senior management with those of shareholders;
- ensure plan designs and actions reflect good corporate governance practices;
- provide fully competitive total compensation opportunities; and
- ensure a reasonable return on our total compensation expenditures.

In furtherance of these objectives, the committee approved a set of programs which work together to reward the company's senior managers for sustained superior performance. These programs are designed to:

- generate levels of total compensation that will attract and retain superior executives;
- offer a competitive base salary while being mindful of our desire to leverage pay from fixed to variable;
- link annual incentives, which vary directly with company and individual performance, to the company's annual operating goals;
- utilize performance share awards to reward executives for consistent performance over a three-year period by linking rewards to three-year financial goals designed to increase shareholder value; and
- encourage long-term decision-making, and thereby enhance shareholder value through the use of stock options.

Senior Executive Officer Compensation for 2005

In setting compensation for the Chief Executive Officer, and reviewing and approving the compensation of the members of the remainder of the senior executive team, the committee reviews the competitiveness of the total compensation package relative to those companies and industries identified as peers or competitors for talent. Such companies include Arrow's competitors, customers and suppliers, and a group of companies of similar size and scope drawn from other industries. Because Arrow manages to a total compensation philosophy, decisions regarding each element of compensation are made in consideration to the individual's contributions, current pay mix, and market conditions.

In order to maximize the effectiveness of the compensation plans, the committee works to ensure that all of the individual components of the compensation program work together to achieve desired behaviors, business results, and shareholder value creation. The objectives of each element of Arrow's total executive compensation system are set forth below.

Base Salary

Base salary represents an integral component of the overall total compensation opportunity. The primary purpose of base salary is to recognize an employee's level of responsibility, immediate contributions, knowledge, skills, experience, and abilities.

The committee reviews each executive officer's base salary annually. The factors which influence committee determinations regarding base salary include prevailing levels of pay among executives of similar companies in industries with which Arrow competes for executive talent, internal pay equity considerations, level of responsibility, prior experience, breadth of knowledge, and job performance.

In conducting its salary deliberations, the committee does not strictly tie senior executive base pay to a defined competitive standard. Rather, the committee elects to maintain flexibility so as to permit salary recommendations that best reflect the individual contributions made by the company's top executives. Each of the named executive officers has an employment agreement, which provides for a minimum base salary.

In order to continue to reinforce Arrow's pay-for-performance philosophy, base salary adjustments for executives in 2005 averaged 3.7%.

Variable Pay

Variable pay, utilizing both cash bonuses and equity awards, plays a significant role in executives' overall compensation and Arrow's pay-for-performance philosophy. Arrow's plans are designed to deliver to the Chief Executive Officer and the senior executive team a significant portion of each executive's compensation through variable pay. It is intended to reinforce Arrow's focus on both short-term and long-term performance and to recognize and reward individuals for the achievement of results.

Arrow's variable pay programs have the following overarching objectives:

focus on organizational priorities and performance;

align compensation with the achievement of organizational strategies and financial goals;

reward exceptional individual and organizational performance; and link capital accumulation to organizational performance.

Arrow's variable pay is delivered in three plans, each representing a different performance horizon. Participation in these plans varies based on individual performance, an individual's role in the organization and prevalent market practice. As discussed below, the three plans are designed to drive and reward short-term, mid-term and long-term performance.

Short-Term Incentive Management Incentive Compensation Plan

Short-term incentives are used to reward employees for individual and company performance on an annual basis while ensuring that Arrow's compensation remains competitive in the marketplace. Arrow's short-term incentive compensation plans serve to reinforce pay for performance and individual accountability for optimizing operating results throughout the year and driving profitability, efficiency and shareholder value.

Management, in consultation with the committee, establishes short-term financial goals that relate to one or more key indicators of corporate financial performance. For 2005, the short-term incentive award opportunity for each participant was based on a mix of the company's achievement of specified levels of operating income, average net working capital as a percentage of sales and individual strategic objectives. For the Chief Executive Officer, his direct reports and other corporate executives, the operating income and working capital targets are based on the results obtained by Arrow as a whole. For operating group and division executives, the results obtained by those groups and divisions are also factored in.

Incentive targets for each participating executive under the Management Incentive Compensation Plan vary depending on the participants' level and breadth of responsibility, potential contribution to the success of the company and competitive considerations.

The participants' awards were determined at year-end based on both the company's performance against the predetermined targets as well as the attainment of the specific individual goals and each individual's contribution to Arrow's success. For 2005, the level of achievement by the participating named executive officers, other than Mr. Mitchell, whose award is discussed below, ranged between 47% and 127% of the targets established under the plan. The awards for participating named executive officers averaged 92% of their respective targets.

Mid-Term Incentive Program

Arrow provides mid-term incentives to its executives through awards under the Omnibus Incentive Plan. These mid-term vehicles may include performance shares, performance units, and restricted stock. The Mid-Term Incentive Program provides a mid-term focus that links executive compensation to improvements in the company's financial results and the performance of its stock.

For 2005, the committee has utilized performance share awards as its mid-term compensation tool. Under such awards, each year begins a new three-year performance period for which the committee establishes financial targets and performance share targets for participating executives based on each participants' level and breadth of responsibility, his or her potential contribution to the success of the company, and competitive considerations.

Each participant's actual award is determined at the end of each three-year period based on Arrow's actual performance against the goals established by the committee at the beginning of that period and may range from 0% to 200% of the target number of shares. For the 2005-2007 period, the committee established a target based on the average EBIT percentage (earnings before interest and taxes divided by sales) over the three years and the return on invested capital at the end of 2007. Awards earned at the end of the three-year period are paid in shares of Arrow common stock.

Long-Term Incentive Program

The grant of stock options under the Omnibus Incentive Plan reinforces the importance of producing satisfactory returns to shareholders over the long-term. Stock option awards provide executives with the opportunity to acquire an equity interest in Arrow and align their interests with those of shareholders.

Option exercise prices are 100% of the fair market value of Arrow shares on the date of grant and vest in four annual installments. This ensures that participants will derive benefits only as shareholders realize corresponding gains over an extended time period. Options have a maximum term of ten years.

Each year, the committee reviews the history of the stock option awards and makes grant decisions based on the committee's assessment of each individual executive's contribution and performance during the year and on competitive compensation practices in comparable companies in those industries with which Arrow competes for executive talent.

Chief Executive Officer Compensation for 2005

The Chief Executive Officer's base salary was evaluated based on Mr. Mitchell's level and span of responsibility and his contributions during the past year to the company's success, as well as on his knowledge, skills, experience, and abilities. These were reviewed against prevailing levels of pay among chief executives of those companies identified as peers or competitors for executive talent and internal pay equity considerations. Based upon these criteria, the committee increased Mr. Mitchell's base salary to $850,000 for 2005.

Mr. Mitchell's 2005 annual cash bonus was covered under the Omnibus Incentive Plan. The plan provides for a performance-based bonus to Mr. Mitchell, as defined by Section 162(m) of the Internal Revenue Code. The maximum bonus to be awarded each year is determined by a formula, which is based on performance goals determined by the committee. The purpose of the plan is to enable Arrow to motivate the Chief Executive Officer to achieve strategic, financial and operating objectives, and to reward contributions towards improvement in financial performance as measured by the formula. For 2005, the performance goals were based on the company's net income and utilization of net working capital. The committee has the discretion to determine the actual amount of the bonus to be paid, which may not exceed the maximum bonus calculated under the bonus formula. The committee considered the level of achievement by the company of financial and other goals and awarded Mr. Mitchell a bonus of $900,000 for 2005 which was within the amount generated by the bonus formula.

In addition to the annual bonus, Mr. Mitchell was awarded 65,000 performance shares under the Mid-Term Incentive Program, the goals of which are the same as those discussed above for other executives. Mr. Mitchell was also awarded 100,000 stock options under the Long-Term Incentive Program for his performance in 2005. Including the estimated value of equity awards, approximately 80% of Mr. Mitchell's total compensation with respect to 2005 was delivered to him in the form of variable pay.

Summary

Each year, the Board and the committee review all elements of cash and non-cash compensation paid to executive officers of Arrow. The committee manages all elements of executive pay in order to ensure that pay levels are consistent with Arrow's compensation philosophy. In addition, the Board and the committee administer Arrow's long-term executive compensation programs to ensure that Arrow's objectives of linking executive pay to improved financial performance and increased shareholder value continue to be fostered.

EMPLOYMENT AND CHANGE IN CONTROL AGREEMENTS

In February 2003, Mr. Mitchell entered into an employment agreement with Arrow that was amended in March 2005. The amendment extended the period of Mr. Mitchell's employment from January 2006 to March 2009, and replaced the prior undertaking to pay certain of his expenses (including, but not limited to, expenses related to club dues, automobile and local transportation, tax preparation, and financial planning) with a single annual payment of $100,000. The amendment also provides for liquidated damages in the event of Mr. Mitchell's termination without cause during the term of the agreement. The agreement provides for a minimum base salary of $750,000 a year, and, for 2003, provided for a guaranteed minimum bonus of $375,000. The agreement also established the terms of Mr. Mitchell's participation in the Supplemental Executive Retirement Plan (the "SERP"), discussed below.

Mr. Fanelli has an employment agreement with Arrow which continues from year to year unless terminated by either party on not less than twelve months' notice. The agreement provides for a minimum base salary and target bonuses as follows:

	2004	2005	2006
Minimum Base Salary	325,000	357,000	393,250
	$ (404,073)	$ (444,251)	$ (475,439)
Target Bonus	175,000	192,000	211,750
	$ (217,578)	$ (238,925)	$ (256,006)

Table of Contents

In addition to legally mandated severance due Mr. Fanelli in connection with the termination of his prior contract with a company subsidiary, the agreement provides for additional payments to Mr. Fanelli of 295,000 ($366,744) in 2004 and 351,000 ($424,359) in 2007. The agreement also provides for a spot bonus of 643,500 ($800,771) in 2005 and for a profit sharing bonus plan for Mr. Fanelli based on growth in operating income, earnings before interest and taxes, and return on working capital in Europe, the Middle East, Africa and South America for the four years beginning in 2004 and ending in 2007. The agreement calls for an initial payment under the profit sharing bonus plan in 2007 and a final payment in 2008. Depending on the results achieved, the total profit sharing payments under the plan will range from a minimum of $600,000 to a maximum of $6,000,000. U.S. dollar amounts shown are based on the average exchange rate in the applicable year, except for amounts as yet unpaid, which are based on the exchange rate at March 17, 2006.

Mr. Long has an employment agreement with Arrow which continues from year to year unless terminated by either party on not less than twelve months' notice. The employment agreement provides for a minimum base salary of $330,000 per year and a minimum target incentive amount of $270,000 per year.

Prior to her resignation, Ms. Green had an employment agreement with Arrow Electronics (UK) Ltd., a subsidiary of the company, which provided for a minimum base salary throughout its term of $427,606 and provided for a targeted incentive payment in 2005 of $256,564. (All amounts under the contract are stated and paid in British pounds, and are converted here for reporting purposes only, using the average exchange rate for 2005). The agreement also provides for the use of a company vehicle (leased by the company at an annual cost of $41,135) and beginning in March 2004, while on expatriate assignment in Hong Kong, the use of a car and driver. Pursuant to a separate agreement concerning Ms. Green's assignment to Hong Kong, she was also entitled to receive for the duration of that assignment monthly round-trip airfare, a cost of living allowance at an annual rate of $21,617, furnished accommodations, tax equalization, and an annual family home leave benefit determined in March 2005 of $17,684, and a one-time relocation allowance of $7,000 in 2004 (converted using the average exchange rate for 2004).

In connection with her departure from the company, in January 2006 Ms. Green entered into a separation agreement which provided for the termination of her employment in March of 2006, the payment of a pro rata share of her base salary until such termination, the payment of her 2005 incentive bonus in the ordinary course, and a final bonus payment of £50,000 ($87,470 at the exchange rate at March 17, 2006).

Mr. Brown has an employment agreement with Arrow which continues from year to year unless terminated by either party on not less than twelve months' notice. The agreement provides for a minimum base salary of $450,000 per year and a minimum target incentive amount of $175,000 per year. In connection with Mr. Brown's relocation to corporate headquarters, the agreement provided for his use of a company-provided apartment through August 2003, and a $10,000 (after tax) monthly housing subsidy thereafter through August 2004. The agreement also established the terms of Mr. Brown's participation in the SERP.

Mr. Reilly has an employment agreement with Arrow which continues from year to year unless terminated by either party on not less than twelve months' notice. The agreement provides for a minimum base salary of $400,000 per year and a minimum target incentive of $150,000 per year.

Table of Contents

Arrow has entered into agreements with each of the named executive officers which provide for payments of three times their annualized includible compensation and continuation of their benefits for up to three years if their employment is terminated by the company (other than for cause approved by three-fourths of the directors then serving), if their responsibilities or base salaries are materially diminished, or if certain other adverse changes occur within 24 months following a change of control of Arrow. The amounts payable pursuant to such agreements to the named executive officers will be reduced, if necessary, to avoid excise tax under Section 4999 of the Internal Revenue Code.

UNFUNDED PENSION PLANS

Arrow maintains an unfunded Supplemental Executive Retirement Plan under which the company will pay supplemental pension benefits to certain employees upon retirement. There are 24 current and former corporate officers participating in this plan. The Board determines who is eligible to participate in the SERP.

The following table sets forth the aggregate annual benefit payable upon retirement for each level of compensation specified at the listed years of service.

The years of credited service for the named executive officers participating in the SERP are 6 years for Mr. Mitchell, 23 years for Mr. Long, 9 years for Mr. Brown, and 21 years for Mr. Reilly. The gross SERP benefit is 2.5% of final average compensation times the years of credited service up to a maximum of 18 years. The benefit is payable as a life annuity with 120 payments guaranteed commencing at age 60, with the exception of Mr. Mitchell, who will be eligible for payments under the plan at 65. The net benefit is reduced by 50% of the Social Security benefit and by the sum of the benefits provided by the ESOP and the 401(k) matching contributions.

In 2002, Arrow amended the SERP to provide for benefits to be determined based on the amount needed to bring a participant's total retirement income (consisting of the SERP payment, social security income, and any other benefit provided by the company during retirement) equal to a specified percentage of that participant's average final compensation at the time of retirement. Under the amended SERP, the specified percentage is based on the number of years of participation in the SERP, rather than the prior practice of a fixed dollar amount per year of service or, in certain instances, the Board determining the annual benefit. The amendment also raised the minimum early retirement age from 50 to 55 (with an additional requirement of number of years of service.)

The original plan also provided for the immediate payment of the full benefit amount upon a participant's involuntary termination of employment for other than cause or disability if it followed a change of control of Arrow by less than two years. Under the amended SERP, however, a participant in such circumstances would receive his or her annual benefit only upon reaching age 60, and then only in the amount accrued up until the time of termination.

Participants whose accrued rights and benefits under the SERP prior to the 2002 amendments would have been adversely affected by the amendment will continue to be entitled to such accrued rights and benefits.

Under the amended SERP, at normal retirement (generally, age 60) Mr. Long would receive estimated annual SERP payments of $545,234, Mr. Brown, $166,855 and Mr. Reilly, $392,170. Under the terms of his employment agreement, Mr. Mitchell will be eligible for payments under the plan at age 65, in an estimated annual amount of $476,254. Neither Ms. Green nor Mr. Fanelli participate in the SERP.

Under an agreement made in July 2004, Ms. Green was a participant in an Executive Pension Arrangement with Arrow Electronics (UK) Ltd which comprised both her continued participation in that company's approved pension scheme and participation in an unfunded, unapproved retirement benefits scheme. The company made contributions to both plans through the end of Ms. Green's employment. Pursuant to applicable law and the separation agreement into which the parties entered in January 2006, Ms. Green will receive statutory benefits under the approved scheme and no benefit under the unfunded, unapproved scheme.

CERTAIN TRANSACTIONS

Mr. Fanelli and his family beneficially own a majority equity interest in manufacturing companies that in the ordinary course of business purchase a part of their electronic components requirements from Arrow, and during 2005 purchased 5,198,231 ($6,468,679 based on the average exchange rate during 2005) of components from Arrow. Arrow has reviewed the transactions, and confirmed that the purchases are on terms and conditions not less favorable to the company than it generally obtains from unrelated, comparable customers.

Pursuant to an agreement entered into in 1980 and subsequently modified, the company was obligated to pay Mr. Waddell's designated beneficiary, a member of his immediate family, a benefit of $1,000,000 upon Mr. Waddell's death. In December 2003, the company and Mr. Waddell's beneficiary entered into an agreement pursuant to which the beneficiary will receive the present-value, annuitized equivalent of the death benefit, in the form of annual payments of $45,000 for the remainder of the beneficiary's life up to a maximum of 12 years.

SECTION 16(a) BENEFICIAL OWNERSHIP REPORTING COMPLIANCE

Section 16(a) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 requires Arrow's officers and directors and persons who own more than ten percent of a registered class of Arrow's equity securities to file reports of ownership and changes in ownership with the SEC. Arrow believes that during fiscal year 2005 its officers and directors complied with all applicable Section 16(a) filing requirements.
