Introductory Note

The letter included in this filing was submitted by Robert E. Switz, CEO of ADC Telecommunications, Inc. Forward-looking Statements

The letter attached below contains forward-looking statements that are not historical facts. Investors and security holders are cautioned not to place undue reliance on these forward-looking statements. The statements are based upon management's current expectations and are subject to certain risks and uncertainties that could cause actual results to differ materially from those described in the forward-looking statements. Risks and uncertainties that could cause results to differ from expectations include, among others: uncertainties as to the timing of the transaction referenced in the letter; the risk that competing offers will be made; the possibility that various closing conditions for the transaction may not be satisfied or waived, including that a governmental entity may prohibit, delay or refuse to grant approval for the consummation of the transaction; the effects of the transaction making it more difficult to maintain relationships with employees, customers, vendors and other business partners; and the risk that shareholder litigation in connection with the transaction may result in significant costs of defense, indemnification and liability. These risks and uncertainties also include those identified in the section captioned "Risk Factors" in Item 1A of ADC's Annual Report on Form 10-K for the year ended September 30, 2009, as may be updated in Item 1A of ADC's subsequent Quarterly Reports on Form 10-Q or other filings ADC makes with the SEC. CEO responds to story on firm's acquisition

On behalf of ADC Telecommunications and its more than 1,000 employees in Eden Prairie and Shakopee, I am writing to express my disappointment in the Star Tribune's July 15 story. ADC sale leaves high-tech vacuum in Minnesota, with few able to fill it.

The speculation in this story about the future of ADC's talented people, innovative technology and general business operations is unfounded. Additionally, it is inappropriate that we were not given the opportunity to comment on the story, especially when the paper knows we are committed to open and honest communications with the media.

We believe that our employees, customers, vendors, shareowners, community partners and your readers deserve better during a time when both ADC and our planned acquirer, Tyco Electronics, have made no decisions about our future operations here in Minnesota and around the world. To publish what essentially is a postmortem on ADC just two days after the announced acquisition is at best premature and at worst irresponsible.

Certainly, we recognize that an acquisition of ADC will bring changes to our company and its presence in this community. However, the fact remains that Tyco Electronics sees in ADC a company with a rich 75-year heritage that it plans to build upon.

Furthermore, the planned combination of the two global companies' innovations and talent is a tribute in part to what a great technology hub this community remains.

As we move toward an anticipated close on the acquisition later this year, we have a sincere hope that the Star Tribune will take more care in how it reports on ADC's presence in the Twin Cities community.

The final chapter of the ADC story has yet to be told.

ROBERT E. SWITZ, CHAIRMAN, PRESIDENT AND CEO, ADC
