The following information amends and supersedes the information that appears under Item 8.01 under the caption "The U.S. Congress is considering legislation that would cause income earned with respect to certain types of partnership interests to be subject to federal income tax in the same manner as fees received for services and such proposed legislation could apply with respect to allocations of income on and dispositions of our common units." in the Current Report on Form 8-K filed by Penn Virginia GP Holdings, L.P. ( "we" or "our" ) with the Securities and Exchange Commission on June 1, 2010.

Item 8.01. Other Events.

Risk Factor

The U.S. House of Representatives has passed, and the Senate is considering, legislation that would cause income earned with respect to certain types of partnership interests to be subject to federal income tax as ordinary income (and potentially subject to self-employment taxes to individual service providers). Because of the nature of our ownership interests in Penn Virginia Resource Partners, L.P., the proposed legislation would likely apply with respect to certain allocations of income on and dispositions of our common units and would likely result in our unitholders being liable for increased taxes. Under the proposed legislation, an exception may apply, and therefore the new legislation may not apply, with respect to certain dispositions of partnership interests. Based on a recently published interpretation by the Joint Committee on Taxation of the U.S. Congress, however, we have been advised that this exception would not apply generally to dispositions of our common units. In summary, in the event the legislation were passed in its current form, our common unitholders would recognize ordinary taxable income (rather than capital gain) with respect to a substantial portion of the income allocated on our common units and, under the Joint Committee's interpretation, with respect to a substantial portion of the income they recognize on disposition of our common units. We are unable to predict whether any of these changes or the exception for certain dispositions will ultimately be enacted or apply to our common unitholders. Any such changes could negatively impact the value of an investment in our common units.
