REVIEW OF MACRO-ECONOMY AND FINANCIAL MARKET CONDITIONS

The currency outlook presented in the last quarterly report was quite prescient. Increasing deficits, low interest rates, rising consumer debt, and accounting scandals have culminated in a lower U.S. dollar exchange rate against the Swiss franc. From the beginning of January through the end of May, the exchange rate fell 5.2% to 1.56 francs per dollar, below even mid-September levels. The dollar's decline accelerated in June, falling another 5.4% in just one month to 1.48 (see chart on the following page). In addition to the factors cited above, concerns over the possibility of further terrorism and additional military campaigns continue to hang over the U.S. currency.

However, relative to other major economies, the economic activity in the U.S. was robust in the quarter. Real Gross Domestic Product (GDP) grew at an annualized rate of 5.6% in the first quarter of this year and continued an upward, though more subdued, trajectory in the second quarter. While a significant portion of this growth stemmed from the slowdown in inventory reductions, the overall picture was still quite positive. U.S. exports grew considerably and may well continue to grow to take advantage of more competitive exchange rates.

The European Union (EU) did not fare quite as well in the first quarter. Real GDP growth was at an anemic, though still positive 0.9% annualized rate. Surveys cited by the Swiss National Bank indicated that the sentiment among European producers and consumers will likely improve, and the European economic revival is "likely to pick up steam as the year goes on".

Without clear signals of any major turning point in the major economies, the dominant story of the past quarter has been the outbreak of accounting scandals and the developing response by investors, regulators, executives, and other stakeholders. While initially limited to U.S. markets, recent events at Vivendi suggest that these problems may extend beyond national borders in this increasingly global business climate.

Over a longer horizon, investor confidence will likely be restored. Executives, directors and auditors have a renewed sense of urgency. Any discovery of misstated financials could stir a public outcry, damage brands, depress stock prices, and perhaps even create personal criminal and civil liability. Future annual reports should provide a better window into each company's financial health. Between now and then, investors will slowly learn how much has been hidden from their view.

Fund Management is hopeful that prudent legislation will strengthen equity markets in the medium and long term. However, hope is not an adequate basis for an investment strategy. Management will monitor global legislative developments closely to determine the impact on international money flows, equity price levels, and the relative competitiveness of international markets.

REVIEW OF SWISS EQUITY MARKETS

The Swiss equity market stood out among the world's major stock indexes with its strong year-to-date performance through the end of May. The SPI and SMI had gained

3.7% and 2.4% respectively while the S&P 500 fell 7.1% and the European Stoxx 50 lost 9.4%. However, corresponding to the slide in the U.S. dollar and U.S. equity markets, the SPI fell sharply in June, down 8.8% for the month, dragging year-to-date performance down to negative 5.4% in Swiss franc terms. However, after adjusting for the sharp movement in the exchange rate, the SPI gained 5.5% year-to-date in U.S. dollar terms.

As illustrated on the accompanying graph, Swiss small caps held their valuation and have outperformed larger companies. Management believes a key factor has been the small caps' low relative exposure to U.S. currency movements. Also contributing to small cap performance was the crisis of confidence in large caps. Overseas scandals have eroded the perception of blue chips as safe investments.

The market punished financial services firms severely in the quarter. Credit Suisse and Zurich Financial dragged down the sector, falling nearly 26% and 23% respectively on concerns of capital adequacy. The performance of the banking sector (distinct from the financial services sector) was dominated by UBS, which lost nearly 10% in the quarter. Revenues are driven by security prices and trading volume in both the financial services and banking sectors. The broad decline in global indexes directly impact top line performance in these sectors.

The insurance sector had been among the poorest performers of this year's first quarter. The slide continued into the second quarter, driven down by a confluence of several factors. The primary reason for this underperformance was the concern over capital adequacy. Many investors in the sector shifted their focus from earnings multiples to balance sheet solvency and integrity. Large portions of insurance reserves are held in equities. As the equity markets declined, insurance companies were forced to shore up their reserves with additional capital.

Adding to the insurers' "capital strain" was the need for new business capital and an increase in EU solvency requirements in 2002. Credit Suisse Group provided the quarter's clearest example of capital strain. The firm announced a 600 million Swiss franc (Sfr) capital injection into its Winterthur insurance unit during the quarter, following a 1,130 million Sfr subordinated loan provided earlier in the year. Even after providing Winterthur with nearly 1.75 billion Sfr in the first half of 2002, it is unclear if the unit's capital will prove adequate.

Moreover, a large and growing proportion of the capital carried by insurers consists of intangibles, such as capitalized software costs and "acquired intangible assets", also known as goodwill. As recent history has shown, the valuation of intangibles is precarious. Capital structures dependent upon intangibles are more fragile than equity consisting of old-fashioned cash. In the post-Enron environment, investors sharply discount intangible assets for their inherent risk. The combination of declining capital quality and increasing capital needs has proven unpalatable for investors, and the insurance sector fell 16.5% for the first half of 2002.

Insurance companies were largely responsible for the June decline in Swiss equity prices. Much of the massive selling on the Swiss market was led by insurance companies in need of liquidity. The reserve levels of many insurers were far too low to sustain high allocations of equities within their portfolios. As the insurers extensively reduced their equity positions, the short-term supply of securities outstripped demand, pushing prices down. This "technical selling" brought large portions of the Swiss market into undervalued territory.

Technology stocks were also hit hard in the quarter. Kudelski accelerated its slide since the beginning of the year, losing nearly 40% in the most recent quarter. Logitech, while still up somewhat for the year to date, slid more than 13% for the quarter. Technology is inherently risky. Companies must stay ahead of the technology curve, and their technology must be adopted by paying customers.

Cyclical stocks gave back most of their impressive gains of the previous quarter. Exchange rates and concerns over trade policy have eroded near-term profits and may weaken long-term outlook. Consensus opinions seem to indicate that the business cycle will not favor Swiss cyclicals as early as previously expected. Among the largest cyclicals, Richemont declined nearly 13% and Swatch gave back nearly 23%.

Non-cyclicals gained considerably in the quarter. Led by the more than 11% gain of Givaudan, the consistent profitability of these firms made them more attractive than companies that have too often failed to meet expectations. Givaudan and its non-cyclical peers benefit from being a "bird in the hand".

Several of the Fund's largest positions outperformed the Swiss market in the quarter. Nestle dropped just over 7%. During the quarter, Nestle acquired American ice-cream powerhouse Breyers, giving Nestle a large lead in the U.S. ice cream market. Nestle and L'Oreal announced a joint venture to enter the market for cosmetic nutritional supplements.

Novartis weathered the storm well, losing only 1% in the quarter. Relative to other stocks, the markets rewarded Novartis for its predictable earnings stream and robust pipeline.

SWISS ECONOMY

The KOF economic barometer held steady during the quarter, opening the quarter in April at minus 0.72 and ending the quarter with a June value of minus 0.71. (The KOF, consisting of six leading economic indicators published by the Swiss Federal Institute of Technology (ETH), signals the growth trend of the gross domestic product of Switzerland, including growth acceleration or growth slowdown). While still below the baseline value of zero, the current KOF reading is well above November's low of minus 1.28. On balance, the Swiss economy was stagnant, neither escaping an economic slowdown nor slipping towards recession. The ETH does expect further growth in the second half of 2002, though at a subdued pace.

Edgar Filing: SWISS HELVETIA FUND INC - Form N-30D

Economic data for the quarter confirms the stability suggested by the KOF indicator. Unemployment held steady at 2.5% throughout the quarter, only slightly higher than December's 2.4%. The Swiss National Bank expects average annual inflation to hover between 0.9% and 1.6% for the next three years. For 2002, the National Bank still anticipates a growth rate of around 1% and stronger growth in 2003.

A major influence on the Swiss economy throughout the quarter has been the appreciation of the Swiss franc. Exports are a major driver of the Swiss economy, and a strong franc impairs the competitiveness of Swiss products. The Swiss National Bank expects an economic upswing to be triggered by exports and these, in turn, will depend on improved economic conditions worldwide.

LETTER TO STOCKHOLDERS (CONTINUED)

FUND PERFORMANCE

The Second Quarter was a difficult one in both Swiss and U.S. equity markets. The Fund outperformed both Swiss and U.S. indexes in terms of Net Asset Value (NAV), gaining 5.1% in U.S. dollars during the quarter. The benchmark Swiss Performance Index (SPI) gained only 2.9% in U.S. dollar terms in the same period. To put those gains in perspective, the Dow Jones Industrial Average lost 11%, or nearly 1,165 points during the quarter. The chart on the preceding page illustrates the performance of the Swiss equity markets by industry sector in Swiss francs.

In the second quarter alone, the U.S. dollar depreciated 11.6% against the Swiss franc. The marked drop in the Swiss franc/U.S. dollar exchange rate had a considerably positive impact on the U.S. dollar performance of the Fund. In Swiss franc terms, the Fund had a net loss, though considerably smaller than the decline in the SPI. The exchange rate movement underscores the importance of currency diversification, and the Fund provides one means by which investors can achieve such diversification.

The Fund grew in both market price and net asset value in the first two quarters of 2002 in U.S. dollar terms. In contrast, the major U.S. equity indexes declined precipitously.

The Fund's discount increased during the quarter, as the growth in net assets outpaced market price gains. While this development impaired Fund performance for the quarter, it increases the potential for market price appreciation in the future due to a potential narrowing of the discount.

STRATEGY

Going forward, concern regarding the capital adequacy of many large firms should continue to be a major theme. This concern is reinforced by the increasing difficulty of raising capital in the current market. Corporate bond spreads over treasuries are very high, cash flows are under pressure, and banks are reluctant to provide much needed short term financing.

In addition, lingering over-capacity and high debt levels should constrain the expected economic recovery, leading to lackluster growth. In that context, and mindful of potential problems in the financial system, Management will continue to focus on low risk stocks with strong cash flow generation and a high percentage of tangible equity relative to debt. Such companies will be able to sustain continuing difficulties in the economy and in the capital markets. These enduring firms can then take advantage of the depressed valuations of their competitors to gain market share by acquisitions.

Occasionally, the markets offer very attractive valuations for leading companies as a result of forced or "technical" selling by insurance companies, institutional investors, and mutual funds (due to redemptions). Management took advantage of depressed valuations during the June decline in equity prices, and looks to do so again as future buying opportunities present themselves.

Management's stock selection will focus on companies with long term competitive advantages, such as lower cost of capital, superior business models, dominant market share and operational excellence (cost cutting and reduction of debt). In the current markets, and as far as we can see in this cycle, capital is not as readily available a commodity as it was in the late 90's. A solid base of equity capital should prove to be a critical advantage going forward. In addition, we expect in the medium-term that regulators will increase equity requirements and minimum solvency ratios for conducting business in the banking industry. This turbulent period should demonstrate how risks can accumulate as negative events occur in series. Many firms based their "optimal capital structures" on high 2001 equity values. As markets decline, many firms find their capital structures precariously laden with debt. Firms carrying a large cushion of equity capital should provide investors with a valuable measure of security.

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS (UNAUDITED)

NOTE 1 -- ORGANIZATION AND SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

A. ORGANIZATION

The Swiss Helvetia Fund, Inc. (the "Fund") is registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940 (the "Act"), as amended, as a non-diversified, closed-end investment management company. The Fund is organized as a corporation under the laws of the State of Delaware.

The investment objective of the Fund is to seek long-term growth of capital through investment in equity and equity-linked securities of Swiss companies.

B. VALUATION OF SECURITIES

The Fund values its investments at market value.

When valuing listed equity securities, the Fund uses the last sale price prior to the calculation of the Fund's net asset value. When valuing equity securities that are not listed or that are listed but have not traded, the Fund uses the mean between the bid and asked prices for that day.

When valuing fixed income securities, the Fund uses the last bid price prior to the calculation of the Fund's net asset value. If a current bid price is not available, the Fund uses the mean between the latest quoted bid and asked prices. When valuing fixed income securities that mature within sixty days, the Fund uses amortized cost.

When valuing securities for which market quotations are not readily available or for which the market quotations that are available are considered unreliable, the Fund determines a fair value in good faith under procedures established by and under the general supervision of the Fund's Board of Directors. The Fund may use these procedures to establish the fair value of securities when, for example, a significant event occurs between the time the market closes and the time the Fund values its investments. After consideration of various factors, the Fund may value the securities at their last reported price or at some other value. On June 30, 2002, there were no fair valued securities.

C. SECURITIES TRANSACTIONS AND INVESTMENT INCOME

Securities transactions are recorded on the trade date. Realized gains and losses are determined by comparing the proceeds of a sale or the cost of a purchase with a specific offsetting transaction.

Dividend income, net of any foreign taxes withheld, is recorded on the ex-dividend date. Interest income, including amortization of premiums and accretion of discounts, is accrued daily. Estimated expenses are also accrued daily.

The Fund records Swiss withholding tax as an expense, net of any amount receivable from Swiss tax authorities in accordance with the tax treaty between the United States and Switzerland.

D. DISTRIBUTIONS

The Fund pays annual dividends from its net investment income and makes annual distributions of any net realized capital gains to the extent they exceed any capital loss carryforwards. The Fund records dividends and distributions on its books on the ex-dividend date.

E. FEDERAL INCOME TAXES

The Fund's policy is to continue to comply with the requirements of the Internal Revenue Code that are applicable to regulated investment companies and to distribute all its taxable income to its shareholders. Therefore, no federal income tax provision is required.

F. SECURITIES LENDING

The Fund may lend securities to financial institutions. The Fund retains beneficial ownership of the securities it has loaned and continues to receive amounts equivalent to the dividends paid on these securities and to participate in any changes in their market value. The Fund requires the borrowers of the securities to maintain collateral with the Fund in the form of cash and/or government securities equal to 102% of the value of the securities loaned. The Fund receives fees as compensation for lending its securities. Either the Fund or the borrower may terminate the securities loan.

G. FOREIGN CURRENCY TRANSLATION

The Fund maintains its accounting records in U.S. dollars. The Fund determines the U.S. dollar value of foreign currency denominated assets, liabilities and transactions by using prevailing exchange rates. In valuing assets and liabilities, the Fund uses the prevailing exchange rate on the valuation date.

In valuing securities transactions, the receipt of income and the payment of expenses, the Fund uses the prevailing exchange rate on the transaction date.

Net realized and unrealized gains and losses on foreign currency translation shown on the Fund's financial statements result from the sale of foreign currencies, currency gains or losses realized between the trade and settlement dates on securities transactions, and the difference between the amounts of dividends, interest, and foreign withholding taxes recorded on the Fund's books and the U.S. dollar equivalent of the amounts actually received or paid.

When calculating realized and unrealized gains or losses on investments in equity securities, the Fund does not separate the gain or loss attributable to changes in the foreign currency price of the security from the gain or loss attributable to the change in the U.S. dollar value of the foreign currency.

H. ESTIMATES

In preparing its financial statements in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States, management makes estimates and assumptions. Actual results may be different.

NOTE 7 -- LITIGATION

On April 2, 2001 and May 8, 2001 two complaints were filed in purported class actions on behalf of stockholders of the Fund in the Court of Chancery of the state of Delaware by individuals claiming to be Fund stockholders against the Fund, each of its Directors and Hottinger Capital Corp., the Fund's Investment Advisor (collectively, the "defendants"). The complaints in these cases, entitled Kimberly Kahn vs. Paul Hottinguer et al. and Charles Miller vs. Paul Hottinguer et al., allege that the defendants have: (A) breached fiduciary duties to stockholders and violated Section 109(a) of the Delaware General Corporation Law by adopting amendments to the Fund's Bylaws requiring a vote of 75% of the Fund's outstanding shares to alter, amend or repeal the Bylaws or to adopt other bylaws; (B) breached fiduciary duties to stockholders by adopting amendments to the Fund's Bylaws requiring nominees for election as directors to satisfy certain qualifications; and (C) breached fiduciary and contractual duties through the manner in which the Fund effected a capital gains distribution in December 2000. The complaints seek as relief among other things: (i) a declaration that the defendants have breached their fiduciary duties to stockholders and that the amendments to the Bylaws are null and void; (ii) an injunction in connection with any meeting of stockholders preventing the defendants from enforcing the Bylaw amendments; and (iii) certain unspecified damages. The claims relating to the Bylaws were dismissed as moot by stipulation of the parties to the litigation. In addition, the defendants have moved to dismiss the capital gains distribution claims because the defendants believe that the plaintiffs fail to state a claim upon which relief can be granted.
