Pershing Square Releases Letter to Shareholders

Highlights First in a Series of Unanswered Questions for ADP

Unveils First in a Series of Videos for Shareholders

New York, NY September 20, 2017 // - Pershing Square Capital Management, L.P. (Pershing Square) today published a letter to shareholders highlighting the significant opportunity for improvement at ADP (NASDAQ: ADP).

The full letter can be viewed here: <https://adpascending.com/shareholder-materials/>

Since our first presentation on August 17, 2017, ADP has yet to respond to the substance of our arguments and it has effectively stated that it can't do any better. Today, Pershing Square published the first in a series of weekly public questions to ADP to help investors understand whether ADP is achieving its full potential. Pershing Square asks that ADP answer these questions publicly and in a timely manner so that all investors may better evaluate the company's performance and future prospects.

Question 1:

What are ADP's margins in Employer Services by sub-segment (Small-Business (SMB), Mid-market, Enterprise, and International), excluding float and allocating corporate expenses?

Is ADP earning comparable margins to Paychex (~41%) in its SMB business? If so, that would imply 12% margins for the rest of Employer Services.

Before shareholders cast their votes in the upcoming election, they deserve to know the margins of each sub-segment of Employer Services as these are critical data points for investors to use to evaluate the company's performance.

Pershing Square also released the first in a series of videos for shareholders who are interested in learning about the tremendous opportunity for improvement at ADP. The video can be viewed at: www.ADPascending.com and on ADPascending's newly launched Facebook, Twitter and YouTube pages.
