ROYAL CARIBBEAN CRUISES LTD. ORDERS ULTRA VOYAGER

MIAMI / HELSINKI September 19, 2003 Building on the popularity and success of its Voyager-class ships, Royal Caribbean Cruises Ltd. today ordered an even larger model the Ultra Voyager for delivery in May 2006.

Destined for the Royal Caribbean International fleet, the new ship will be built at Kvaerner Masa-Yards in Finland, continuing a shipbuilding tradition that produced five Voyager-class ships, two Vision-class vessels and four earlier ships.

Roughly 15 percent larger than Voyager, the Ultra Voyager will be 126 feet by 1,112 feet, and will stand 18 stories high while cruising at approximately 22 knots. At 100 percent occupancy, it will carry 3,600 guests and 1,400 crew.

The Voyager-class ships clearly changed the face of cruising, said Chairman and CEO Richard D. Fain. The Ultra Voyager will extend that success and, with a lower per berth capital and operating costs, provides even better economies of scale.

We are pleased that the partnership and tradition with Royal Caribbean continues, said Jorma Eloranta, president and chief executive officer at Kvaerner Masa-Yards. The Ultra Voyager will reflect this legacy of trust and support.

The yard and cruise line signed a preliminary agreement last June, outlining the design and specifications of the new ship. Today's contract formalizes that agreement and results in a capacity growth of about 3% in each of 2006 and 2007. The company estimates total all-in costs to be just over $200,000 per guest berth. The yard also granted the company an option for a second Ultra Voyager, with a 2007 delivery date.

In related news, the company announced it would not be exercising its options for a fifth and sixth Radiance-class vessel.

Royal Caribbean Cruises Ltd. is a global cruise company that operates Royal Caribbean International and Celebrity Cruises, with a combined total of 26 ships in service and two under construction. The company also offers unique cruise-tour vacations in Alaska, Canada and Europe. Additional information can be found on www.royalcaribbean.com, www.celebrity.com or www.rclinvestor.com.
