ITEM 5. OTHER EVENTS

On February 10, 2003, i2 Technologies, Inc. (the Company) issued a press release announcing that the Company will not be moving to the NASDAQ SmallCap Market as previously announced. The Company stated that the decision is a result of NASDAQ's proposed changes to the continued listing requirements for the NASDAQ National Market. As a result of this decision, the Company has received from the NASDAQ a delisting notification, which it plans to appeal.

The NASDAQ Board of Directors recently approved an amendment to the National Market continued listing requirements that, if approved by the SEC, could allow the Company to satisfy the National Market listing requirements if its stock price rises to above the $1 level within the newly-proposed extended grace period.

Based on the potential listing requirement changes, the Company has decided to utilize the NASDAQ delisting appeals process to demonstrate its ability to comply with and maintain the new listing standards, if approved by the SEC. Therefore, the Company has withdrawn its application to phase down to the NASDAQ Small Cap Market and NASDAQ has furnished the Company with a notice of intent to delist for noncompliance with the NASDAQ National Market's minimum shareholders equity requirement.

The Company plans to submit a request for a hearing to appeal the delisting notification. Hearings are generally scheduled 30 to 45 days from the time of request. The Company's stock will continue to trade on the NASDAQ National Market while the appeal is pending.

In the event that NASDAQ does not accept the Company's position regarding its ability to meet and maintain the National Market continued listing standards, the Company intends to seek permission to move to the NASDAQ Small Cap Market at that time.
